Big American Bombers Destroy Seven Jap Vessels in New Guinea

Air, Sea Battle For Australia Raging in Fury

By The Associated Press.
American bombers smashing at Japanese invasion trains off the northeastern New Guinea coast above the Australian mainland have destroyed seven enemy ships, the War Department announced last night.

These successes—which left four of the enemy ships on fire, two sinking and one beached—appeared to have been those previously announced by the Royal Australian Air Force, whose communiqué had used the expression “our bombers,” thus leaving the inference that it was an Australian action.

It seemed clear that the battle for the approaches to Australia was now raging in full fury.

Harbor Raided.
Eight heavy American bombers raided Japanese shipping in the Harbor of Salamaua, New Guinea. The bombers, commanded by Major Richard H. Carmichael, dropped 18 tons of bombs on Japanese ships in the harbor, the department said. None of the planes was damaged.

The heart of the supreme test appeared to be approaching for Australia, for despite the losses inflicted by American airmen the Japanese enemy went on massing large invasion forces in the waters of New Guinea at the threshold of the mainland.

It was here that the battle for two oceans was centered; the Burma-Outer India theater was at the moment mainly a theater of maneuvering for position and all quiet was the word from General MacArthur's Bataan line on Luzon in the Philippines.

Good Account.
American and apparently to some extent other Allied air power was giving a good account of itself, but the outlook was not bright for the defenders.

For in the face of these casualties enemy flotillas escorting a large convoy toward the southern New Guinea harbor of Port Moresby were reported sighted.

Port Moresby, at all points in the cutting islands—where the invader already held beachheads both on New Guinea and New Britain—would be the most logical marching point for a major force attempting to leap the Torres Strait onto Australia proper 300 miles to the southwest. The town and harbor were raided during the day by 12 enemy bombers with undetermined results, the presumed objective having been to aid the expected landing there.

Australian Attacks.
Australian aircraft meanwhile descended on enemy transports at Finchhafen, on the New Guinea coast above Salamaua.

At Gasmata, an enemy flying boat was set afire. Elsewhere, Japanese airdromes were bombed. Australia's entire strategy became one of attack and yet attack; the great necessity was at all cost to prevent the accumulation of enemy strength on New Guinea.

War Minister Francis Forde, making plain that only aggressive and not defensive action was now being considered, declared to the country: “There should be no more talk of withdrawals.”

Weather To Stay Mild.

No Rain in Prospect
More mild weather is in prospect for Atlanta and vicinity today, the weatherman predicted, with no rain in sight.

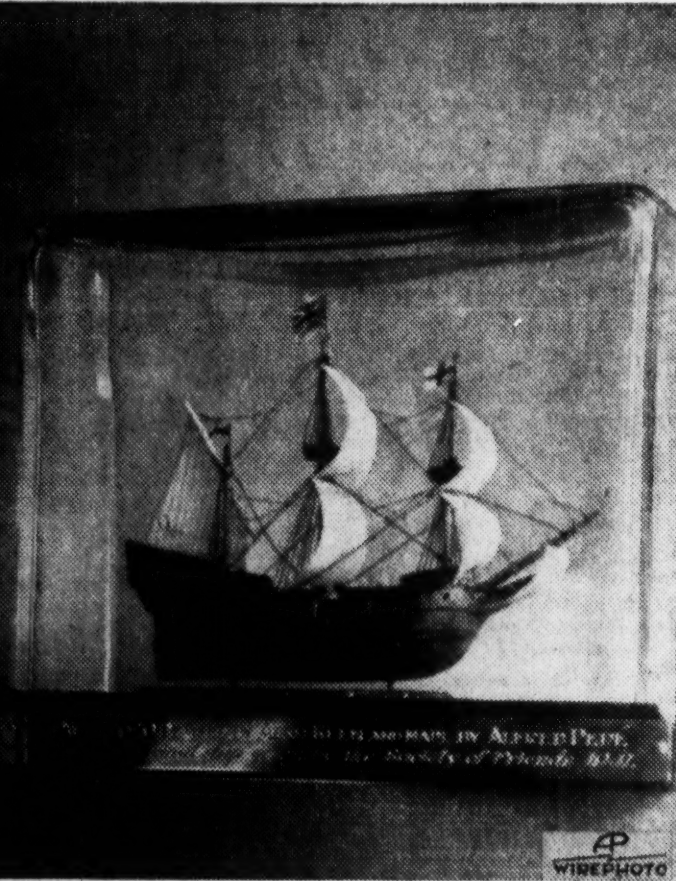

Yesterday's temperature extremes were 45 and 64 degrees. The reading at midnight was 56 degrees.

GIFT FOR F. D. R.—Ship-loving Franklin Delano Roosevelt has another model to add to his collection. It is a model of the Mayflower and was fashioned from a piece of wood from the Pilgrim ship. A gift to the President from Brenden Bracken, chief of the British ministry of information, it was brought to this country by U. S. Ambassador John G. Winant. Accompanying the model was a book which tells of the finding of the timbers.

Air Superiority Won for Japs, Hart Declares

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP) Smashing Japanese aerial superiority that showed up at every crucial phase of battle was credited by Admiral Thomas C. Hart today with having produced victory for the enemy in the first great campaign of the Pacific war.

The former Asiatic fleet chief and commander of Allied naval forces in the western Pacific declared, however, that the enemy had paid such a high cost in ship losses for the vast, rich territory captured that he must have “great concern” for the future.

Slight, grayish “Tough Tommy Hart” told his story of the tragic failure of the American, Dutch and British Allies at Secretary Knox's press conference. Beside him sat Admiral Ernest J. King, supreme United States naval commander. The recital left no doubt among Hart's hearers that, in his view at least, America's first big task in reconquering the western Pacific must be to concentrate overwhelming air power there.

By coincidence, emphasizing what air power can do, the War Department announced a short time after Hart had spoken out, that eight heavy American bombers had sunk two Japanese ships, set four on fire and beached another in a raid on the harbor of Salamaua, New Guinea, a Japanese-held port.

The force which blasted these seven Jap ships was under command of Major Richard H. Carmichael, the department's communiqué said, adding that 18 tons of bombs had dropped in the attack, and “all our planes returned to their base undamaged.”

(Such an attack had been described earlier in the day in dispatches from Canberra, Continued on Page 2, Column 3.

Nazis' Ghost Ship Routed After Threat To Russia's Sea Lane

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
LONDON, March 11.—The 50,000-ton superdreadnaught Tirpitz, ghost ship of the German Navy, has been spotted at sea, attacked by British torpedo planes, and chased to refuge in Norway, the admiralty announced tonight.

The bare facts of this first known battle with Germany's newest and finest battleship were contained in a five-sentence communiqué which suggested that strong naval forces of both sides were operating off Norway in the opening phases of what is expected to become a prolonged battle for control of the supply lane to Russia.

The Nazis in this case risked the Tirpitz and probably others of their best warships in a futile attempt upon a British convoy. Qualified sources said the convoy was a large one carrying war materials to Russia.

Text of Communique.
The admiralty communiqué said: “As a result of reconnaissance it became known that the German battleship Tirpitz had left Trondheim (Norway) and was proceeding in a northerly direction up the coast of Norway.”

“On the morning of Monday, March 9, the Tirpitz was located and attacked with torpedoes by naval aircraft.”

“It was not possible to observe in detail the result of this attack, but the Tirpitz was last seen retiring under cover of a heavy smoke screen towards the Norwegian coast.”

“Our surface forces did not succeed in making contact with the enemy, but any attempt to attack our convoy was frustrated.”

“Two of our aircraft did not return from the attack on the Tirpitz.”

Ignominious Flight.
Whether the Tirpitz was damaged was not made clear, but if not, her ignominious retirement indicated either the presence of superior forces or a notable respect for the naval torpedo planes which played the major role in bringing to bay and sinking her sister ship, the Bismarck, last May 26.

Undoubtedly the British planes came from an aircraft carrier, since the distance from Britain would be difficult for land-based craft.

Informed British sources said the fight probably was the same action mentioned in a German communiqué yesterday, which reported Nazi navy forces sank a Soviet merchantman and shot down three British planes off Bear Island, between Spitzbergen and northern Norway.

The Germans may well have falsified the location, since Bear Island is more than 800 miles north of Trondheim and out of the way of normal sea lanes from Britain to northern Russia.

Battle Strength.

The Admiralty did not say whether the British surface forces included major units, but unofficial sources said, “We certainly were not sending along any little ships to swap punches with the Tirpitz.”

City To Buy Sirens For Air Raid Alarms

Purchase of 250 electrically operated sirens to be used exclusively as air raid warning signals was authorized yesterday by Atlanta's Municipal Defense Council, and bids on the equipment will be opened at noon Monday by council's purchasing committee.

Dr. Bowdoin Sentenced to Year in Prison

Found guilty of “involuntary manslaughter in the commission of an unlawful act in operating an automobile while intoxicated,” Dr. C. Dan Bowdoin, chief epidemiologist of the State Health Department, yesterday was sentenced by Judge James C. Davis in DeKalb superior court to serve a year in prison.

A motion for new trial was filed yesterday and will be heard April 24. The doctor is free on a $1,000 bond and will remain on his health department job.

After the verdict had been returned, Solicitor General Roy Leathers, of the Stone Mountain circuit, stated in court that neither the prosecution nor the family of the woman killed in the accident on which the charge was based, desired the defendant to serve in prison.

The case grew out of the death November 13, 1938, of Mrs. Frank Mauldin, of 284 Milledge avenue, S. E., in an automobile accident on the Buford highway, in which Dr. Bowdoin was alleged to have been driving the car which was in collision with that in which Mrs. Mauldin was riding. Investigators testified they trailed the car, which had run on a rim, from the scene of the accident to a filling station at Boulevard and Piedmont avenue. In it, they said they found Dr. Bowdoin and Miss Mary Harley, whom he later married.

Two Atlanta policemen testified they found whisky in the car and that the defendant was under the influence of liquor.

Dr. Bowdoin testified he had taken only two small drinks, and that, after the accident, he got out of his car, failed to see the other car, and concluding it had not been damaged, drove on.

SATO OFF TO RUSSIA.
TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcasts), March 11.—(AP)—Naotake Sato, newly-appointed Japanese ambassador to Soviet Russia, left at noon today to take up his post. He succeeds Lieutenant General Yoshitsugu Tatekawa, who resigned because of ill health.

Auto Dealers' Shops Seen as War Work Aid

A large, untapped supply of machinery, skilled mechanics and manufacturing space is lying idle in Georgia's 578 automobile dealer shops, a survey by Joseph W. Frazer, president of Willys-Overland Motors, showed yesterday.

The survey estimated that if all the machinery existing among automobile dealers in Georgia were pooled and harnessed to the war effort, an arms factory of 2,320,000 square feet would be provided.

This factory would employ nearly 1,700 skilled men and would be equipped with 50 lathes, 270 grinding machines, 10 shapers, 150 electric drills, 440 welding units, 410 buffing machines, 380 spray painting units, 1,080 vises, 620 portable drills and a large amount of miscellaneous machinery.

The Georgia survey is part of a nation-wide study begun by Frazer six weeks ago and submitted to the War Production Board. Frazer said a careful study of the questionnaires revealed much of the idle equipment could be used to manufacture many types of armament parts other than those requiring precision work.

Australia Threatened With Fate of Indies

TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcasts), March 11.—(AP)—A warning that Australia will suffer the fate of the Netherlands East Indies if she “continues her present attitude toward Japan” was sounded today by a spokesman for the Japanese information board.

Domei quoted the spokesman as saying that “continued resistance will result in nothing but disaster and suffering for the Australian people such as has just been experienced by the Netherlands East Indies.”

Stilwell Equals '100,000 Men'

CHUNGKING, March 11.—(AP)—Sao Tang Pao, Chinese army organ, said today that the appointment of U. S. Lieutenant General Joseph W. Stilwell as chief of staff to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek was the equivalent of adding 100,000 troops to China's fighting forces.

Stilwell is the right man for the job, the newspaper said, and his assignment “symbolizes increasing Chinese-American friendship and closer co-ordination between the United Nations.”

Brunswick May Get Big Ship Building Unit

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP) Representative Vinson said today conferences were in progress to arrange a Maritime Commission contract with qualified interests to commence a shipbuilding program at Brunswick, Ga., which would employ between 8,000 and 10,000 workers.

He added a definite decision may be reached by tomorrow.

Vinson, who is chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee, said if the Maritime Commission conferences failed, he would try to interest the Navy in the construction of auxiliary vessels at Brunswick.

He explained the Brunswick Marine Company already was building tugs for the Maritime Commission, and locations were being studied for the erection of ways for the construction of larger vessels.

400,000 Joined Ranks Of Employed Last Month

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP) WPA figures showed today that the number of employed persons in the United States increased by 400,000 during February to a total of 48,600,000.

The rise contrasted with a reported decrease of 1,300,000 in employment from December to January, which was attributed largely to the effects of priorities on industry and shifts from normal to war production.

February's increase, the WPA said, was accounted for principally in the rural areas where the expected seasonal factors were accelerated to some extent by the war stimulus to greater crop acreage “and the fear of farm labor shortages later in the year.”

India Independence Plan Wins Approval

LONDON, March 11.—(AP)—Britain's war cabinet has agreed unanimously on a plan to smooth the way for eventual dominion status for India, and Sir Stafford Cripps, trusted friend of the subcontinent, Winston Churchill announced today.

Making his eagerly-awaited statement to the house of commons, the prime minister called the plan “a strong contribution to aid India in the realization of full self-government.” But he said that it was not yet being announced lest its rejection by essential elements of the Indian population “provoke fierce communal disputes at the moment when the enemy is at the gates of India.”

Most members of parliament believed the Churchill plan offered less than the immediate independence demanded by some Indians but more than post-war introduction of self-government. They felt also that it contained an important military condition which would leave Britain in full control of military operations in and from India to the end of the war; moreover, it was believed likely the United States, which is sending a technical mission to India, was underwriting the independence plan.

Churchill first recalled the government's August, 1940, promise of full dominion status for India as soon as possible after the war. Now, he said, the war cabinet “in order to clothe these general declarations with precision and to convince all classes, races and creeds in India of our sincere resolve,” have unitedly agreed upon conclusions for present and future action.

These conclusions, he explained, would avoid “the alternative dangers: Either that resistance of a powerful minority might impose an indefinite veto upon the wishes of the majority, or that a majority decision might be taken which would be resisted to a point destructive of internal harmony and fatal to the setting up of a new constitution.”

Asked if Cripps, in seeking Indian agreement to the plan, would proceed on the basis of the 1940 promise of post-war dominion status, Churchill replied sharply that the envoy's talks “will proceed on the basis of the new conclusions.”

Petroleum Unit Asks Curfew, Gas Rationing

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP) A card system of rationing gasoline to 10,000,000 motorists in the east to cut consumption by 25 percent was proposed today by the petroleum industry in view of the sinking and war diversion of tanker ships.

Until the rationing cards can be printed, which might require several weeks, the industry recommended that motor fuel deliveries to filling stations be cut by one-fourth with the stations apportioning their supplies among their customers.

The industry report proposed also that all filling stations in the eastern states be closed from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m., that immediate action be taken to reduce deliveries of fuel oil, and that a pipeline be constructed from the gulf area to the New York-Philadelphia area.

Petroleum Co-ordinator Ickes, who, yesterday described the supply situation as “very acute,” said he would act promptly, but could not say to what extent he would follow the industry's recommendations.

The area affected by the restriction proposals embraces the 17 seaboard states and the District of Columbia. The report hinted that rationing also might be necessary later in other areas.

Government petroleum officials apparently were undecided whether to apply the “curfew” only to the east or extend it throughout the country. The petroleum industry war council, an advisory group, previously had suggested that it embrace all states.

It was understood some officials favored discarding the “curfew” idea in favor of a plan for limiting stations to 12 hours operations daily, with each retailer selecting the hours he preferred to remain open.

Invaders Hold Broad Delta in Lower Burma

MANDALAY, Burma, March 11.—(AP)—British forces some 150 miles north of lost Rangoon braced themselves today for expected assaults on Toungoon and Prome by Japanese who already have gained possession of the broad Irrawaddy delta of lower Burma.

The two cities are 80 miles apart and about one-third of the distance from Rangoon to Mandalay.

Unofficially the Japanese were reported to have reached a village 16 miles south of Toungoon and to have established contact with bands of rebellious Burmese along the Irrawaddy river for an attack on Prome.

Although a northward offensive along the general line from the Bay of Bengal on the west to the Thailand border on the east would leave the Japanese right flank endangered by Chinese forces, the invaders apparently were preparing to take this risk in the hope of getting at Mandalay, pivot of Burma's continuing defense.

It was reported meanwhile that the Chinese in the Shan states, on the eastern end of the new allied Burma line, would be supported by large numbers of American planes. Their troops are now taking their full share in defense of central Burma under the British commander, Lieut. Gen. H. R. L. G. Alexander.

Chinese sources said earlier defeats ground in Burma might have been forestalled if Chinese troops had been put into action sooner.

They said thousands of skilled Chinese veterans had been immobilized on the Thailand and Indo-China borders, the Japanese there being just active enough to prevent the Chinese from being ordered south to defend Rangoon.

Rangoon's loss, always regarded as the key to the defense of Burma, was a blow.

Girl and Two Men Held Without Bond in Murder Case.

NEW YORK, March 11.—(AP)—Her spirit broken, Madeline Webb, 28, a former model and dancer, sobbed "You can't do this—you can't do this" as she was described in homicide court today as "the lure" in the robbery and strangulation of wealthy Mrs. Susan Flora Reich, a Polish refugee.

Miss Webb, who formerly lived in Stillwater, Okla.; Eli Shonbrun, 33, with whom she was arrested in a Bronx rooming house late last night, and John D. Cullen, 45, were held without bond for the grand jury on charges of suspicion of homicide.

Mrs. Reich's body, her mouth bound with adhesive tape and her hands and feet bound by wire, was found last Thursday in an East Side hotel apartment rented by a "Mr. and Mrs. Ted Leopold." Miss Webb and Shonbrun were the Leopolds, said Assistant District Attorney Jacob Grumet, adding that the girl was "the lure" who invited Mrs. Reich to the apartment where she was robbed of $2,000 in jewelry and then slain.

Suspect, Shot In Leg Twice, Runs 6 Blocks

Clifford Smith, 22-year-old Negro, ran six blocks after being shot in the leg twice by officers who found him attempting to enter the Charles Bombas liquor store, 292 Edgewood avenue, N. E., yesterday morning, police reported.

Radio Patrolman N. P. Miller, who finally captured the Negro on Fort street, fell and sprained his wrist in the chase.

Patrolmen Miller and A. M. King were assigned to watch the liquor store, which had been burglarized several times recently. They reported they discovered Smith attempting to jimmy the lock off the front door.

When a car approached, the Negro ran up the street and tried to open the door of the police car, apparently to hide, when he discovered the officers.

BALBOA, C. Z., March 11.—(AP) Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson is inspecting the Canal Zone defenses on his first trip outside the United States since the country went to war.

Disclosure of Stimson's presence here was permitted today, a day after his arrival by plane under escort of a dozen fighters.

The secretary, with Lieutenant General Frank M. Andrews, commander-in-chief of the Caribbean area, and high-ranking officers, began a four-day inspection of the Canal Zone defenses yesterday.

Studying defense positions guarding the Panama Canal, Stimson and his aides first visited harbor and coast defenses yesterday.

This morning they inspected Caribbean defense headquarters and discussed and perfected plans for a unified command and operations in the canal sector.

They took off today at 10:30 a. m., with fighter escort, for an air tour across and around the Canal Zone. This afternoon they inspected the Atlantic side of the defenses and studied progress of construction of the third set of locks at Gatun.

Harvey Bundy, assistant secretary of war for air, and Colonel E. L. Harrison, aide to Stimson, were in the group from the United States.

House Approves Bill Designed To Keep Prices at Parity

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP)—The house approved today a farm bloc proposal designed to prevent the sale of government-held surplus crops below parity prices but some members questioned whether the action would accomplish the purpose in the face of administration opposition.

Pullman Tax Case Halted by Appeals Court

Tribunal Puts End to Litigation Started in 1937.

The Georgia court of appeals yesterday called a halt to a tax case which had gotten in tune with the old rhyme, "round and round she goes and where she stops nobody knows."

If involved litigation started in 1937 to collect state and county taxes on 34 Pullman cars assessed at a valuation of $340,000 for the years 1930 through 1936.

Already the case had followed this route: The state board of tax appeals decided the case in favor of the Pullman company, the Fulton superior court upheld the tax appeals board and the state court of appeals affirmed the superior court by direction of the Georgia supreme court, to which the court of appeals certified a question. The case reached the court of appeals again on the plea of Revenue Commissioner J. M. Forrester to amend the petition.

"There ought to be an end of litigation somewhere, sometime, and some court should be empowered to say under reasonable legal rules that a case is finished and ended," the appellate court said.

Second Accident Victim Succumbs

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. JASPER, Ga., March 11.—Mrs. R. H. Gentry, 70, of Laurell Blooming, Tenn., died in a Jasper hospital this afternoon, the second victim of an automobile accident near here last Sunday. Mrs. Gentry died at the same hour funeral services were being held in Atlanta for her sister-in-law, Mrs. Cies Dollar, who died as a result of injuries received in the same accident.

Mrs. Gentry is survived by four sons, G. A., of Byromville, Ga.; R. W., of Frostproof, Fla.; J. H., of Johnson City, Tenn., and Sergeant Ray Gentry, of Camp Blanding, Fla.

Her body was taken to Laurell Blooming today and funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday.

Unlike the proposal advanced in the Senate for a flat prohibition against the government's sale of its holdings below parity, the House measure would prevent the Commodity Credit Corporation from using any of its funds for expenses connected with such sales.

By a non-record vote of 116 to 47, the House retained in the $695,000,000 agriculture appropriations bill a clause for this purpose. The corporation's allotment was $3,513,498.

Evasion Seen.

Some members contended that sub-parity sales could be carried on despite the restriction. Representative Dirksen, Republican, Illinois, said that existing law permits transfer of departmental funds up to five per cent, and that the President had a "blank check" emergency fund which he could use for that purpose if he desired.

But Representative Tarver, Democrat, Georgia, chairman of the Appropriations Sub-Committee on Agriculture, argued that the clause would prove effective "unless evaded," and urged the House to send it along to the Senate where it might be rewritten to make it more effective.

There were certain exemptions. The House two days ago modified the clause to permit release of deteriorated corn and wheat below parity to feed livestock and make industrial alcohol, and of cotton in connection with the Agriculture Department's "new uses" program.

"Decent Wage" Asked. The vote was heralded by pleas from the farm bloc that the House give the agriculture producers a "decent living wage."

"Now is the time to show whether you are a friend of the farmer, or whether you are willing to render only lip service," cried Representative O'Connor, Democrat, Montana, "give them the parity which they have been promised."

Representative Poage, Democrat, Texas, saw the government surplus crops as a menace to the farmer's fight to obtain parity prices and declared there was "a deliberate attempt to drive the market below parity."

Representative Wadsworth, Republican, New York, argued, however, against writing new laws granting any one group "special privileges," while Representative Taber, Republican, New York, contended that much of the surplus grain could be used for food and alcohol and that it was wise to get rid of this "constant menace" to farmers' income at the present time.

Nation's Health Standards Low, Surgeon Says

'Statesmanship of Medicine' Urged To Improve Conditions.

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH.
AP Staff Writer.

America is today far below physical standards it must meet in the total defense effort.

Dr. James A. Crabtree, surgeon of the United States Public Health Service, Washington, D. C., told members of the Southeastern Surgical Congress at its closing meeting yesterday that one of the greatest needs at present is the "statesmanship of medicine" to improve and maintain the health of the American people not only while the nation is at war but for many years afterward.

"World events during the past two years have changed many of our concepts of war," he declared. "War today is not exclusively a struggle between men bearing arms, it also is a contest of industrial production" in which a large percentage of the population is, or will be, involved.

Unity of Purpose.

"For a nation to carry on this kind of war successfully requires not only a unity of purpose which springs from the spirit of its people, but also a strength and endurance which can only be found in a healthy and vigorous citizenship."

The nation today not only needs millions of men carrying rifles and manning battleships but also the stubborn strength of everyone else "to support a civilian morale whereby civilian defenses may be kept on the alert, and industrial production continually on the increase," he said.

Every person in the United States must be boosted to the highest level of health possible with the nation's resources of knowledge now available in the fields of medicine, public health, nursing, engineering and farm production, Dr. Crabtree declared.

Atlantian Elected.

The congress inducted Dr. Alton Ochsner, of New Orleans, La., as its new president and elected Dr. Elmer H. Henderson, of Louisville, Ky., as president for 1943. Dr. Henderson is now director of the procurement and assignment service for the Fifth Army Corps Area.

Dr. Frederick Waas, of Jacksonville, Fla., was elected vice president and Dr. B. T. Beasley, of Atlanta, was re-elected as secretary-general and treasurer. The 1943 meeting of the association will be held in Louisville, Ky.

Dr. Chevalier L. Jackson, of Philadelphia, whose father perfected the use of the bronchoscope, a device used with great effectiveness in Atlanta by Dr. Murdoch Equen, who studied under the older Jackson, was among outstanding speakers at the session yesterday.

In a special resolution adopted by the organization and wired to

MAINE RIVER RAMPAGES—Water and huge ice cakes from the Narraguagus river swept through the main street of Cherryfield, Me., after a huge ice jam blocked the river and sent it flowing over its banks. One resident of the seacoast village was drowned saving his 10-year-old son after their rowboat capsized.

President Roosevelt the physicians urged he "adopt immediately all measures necessary to co-ordinate the efforts of all loyal citizens in this war effort" and that "in the interest of increased efficiency and the speeding of the day of ultimate victory," the principle of eight-hour work days and the 40-hour week be suspended until after the war.

Resolution Indorsed.

Several physicians after hearing the resolution and indorsing it, added "we're not working a five-day week or an eight-hour day. We're working around the clock and there has never yet been a strike called in the medical profession because a doctor refused to join the American Medical Association."

One prominent surgeon added that he had not yet "heard of any strike among the men on Bataan peninsula except the strikes of the Jap soldiers when they saw cold steel coming at them."

A new operation to give the brain a muscle and overcome some cases of paralysis was also described before the congress.

The muscle does not act in a push-and-pull effort, but instead as a pipeline to carry blood to injured parts of the brain which control the movements of the arms and legs, Dr. Frederick E. Kredel, of the Medical College of South Carolina, Charleston, S. C., told the meeting.

The operation to date has been performed on only five persons who were carefully selected from a large group of partially paralyzed individuals. The results, Dr. Kredel declared, have been "quite successful" in enabling them to walk and talk again.

All of the persons operated on had partial or total paralysis of the body due to hardening of the arteries of the brain or blood clots in the brain. No attempt has been made to perform it on persons with brain tumors or brain cancer.

The operation is one of the most delicate ones in surgery, but, because the brain itself is insensitive to pain it can be done with merely local anesthesia of the scalp.

A familiar sight at naval training stations is seamstresses stitching platoon stripes on sailors' uniforms with the boys proudly watching.

British People Grateful for Help of U. S.

Dr. Cullis Addresses English Speaking Union Here.

By DUDLEY GLASS.

"England is not starving, though many foods are rationed. England is not weeping. England is happy. Happy because her men and her women are doing all they possibly can do—in the field, on the sea, in the air, in the factories, in the homes."

Dr. Winifred C. Cullis was speaking. She was the honor luncheon guest yesterday at the Capital City Club of the English Speaking Union and several other organizations. More than 250 women attended, with half-a-dozen men. Dr. Ashby Jones presided. Mrs. Edward Worcester introduced Count Storza, of "Free Italy," who spoke of the millions of his countrymen who are opposed to Fascism and hope for victory for the United Nations. Dr. Frank Boland introduced Dr. Cullis, principal speaker.

Dr. Cullis, until recently professor of physiology at the ancient University of London, is an M. D., but she has never practiced, she said. For several years she has worked for the British government in carrying messages of friendship to the women of many nations. Last year she visited Japan, China, the Dutch East Indies, Singapore and Malaya. She is in America as an "ambassador of British women to the women of the United States."

Keep Smiling.

"I know you want to know just what the women of Great Britain are doing," she said, "because you women of America may be called upon to do similar things. I trust you will never know the terrors of air raids, the difficulties and dangers of blackouts. But if you do, I know you will learn, as the British women did, to take it with a smile and keep on working for your country harder than ever."

"I must pause to tell you how deeply England is grateful for America's aid and encouragement, even before you entered the war. Many of the time I've heard someone say, 'How could we have lived without this clothing from America?' There was a tremendous strengthening of morale, too, in the feeling that you Americans were with us in spirit and helping all you could."

Dr. Cullis spoke of the long fight Britain has put up against countries better equipped and prepared.

Helped America.

"Do not forget that we have held the field a long time," she said. "That helped America by giving you time to prepare yourself."

Dr. Cullis described in detail much of the work of the women of Britain, in the various military services and in the munitions plants, where all grades of society work elbow to elbow without distinction. She told how women help man the anti-aircraft guns, actually point them and give the firing signals; of the thousands of women telegraphers and radio operators of the warning signal outfit; of the marvelous skill of girls who drive cars and ambulances in the darkness of blackouts.

"We shall have 300,000 women in various forces by the end of this year," she said. "British women are doing more and more every day to replace men and release them for the work, military and civil, a woman cannot do."

as probable because of its comparatively exposed position, likewise might have been long delayed except for serious depletion of some of Britain's best imperial battalions in the battles between the Bilin and Sittang rivers in mid-February.

The lower Sittang river bridge was destroyed February 23, before British withdrawal was complete, entailing further heavy losses. Armored forces arriving later at the front lacked sufficient infantry support to keep the Japanese from crossing the Sittang.

British Withdraw.

The British were forced to withdraw northward and fight off Japanese encirclements.

With the ports of Rangoon and Bassein now open to Japanese warships, it was considered likely that the next Japanese sea move might be directed against Akyab, port near the frontier of India, and the Chittagong coast of India.

(An authoritative source in London said that the loss of Rangoon left the Indian ocean open to the Japanese and that they could be expected "to attack our trade and transport and may extend their activities as far as Ceylon.")

Military circles here, dependent on motor couriers for all reports from south Burma, said the exact situation there was uncertain and changing hourly.

CHUNGKING, March 11.—(AP)—After a week in Chungking, United States Lieutenant General Joseph W. Stilwell, newly appointed chief of staff to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, left for Burma by air today to study the military situation there, confer with British commanders and inspect Chinese troops.

Aid To Allies Falling Short, F.D.R. Asserts

Success Will Come Dear-ly, President Warns the Nation.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP) Reporting a total of $2,570,452,444 lend-lease help for the United Nations in the last year, President Roosevelt bluntly told congress today that "what has been done falls far short of what is needed to turn the tide toward victory."

"The war will be won, he asserted, 'only by contact with the enemies, and by attack upon them.' It takes time and 'more and still more equipment and transportation' to organize the offensive, he said. "Success will come dearly at the price of defeats and losses," he added, and:

"The offensive that the United Nations must, and will drive into the heart of the Axis will take the entire strength that we possess."

The $2,570,452,444 in assistance extended is but a fraction of the total lend-lease funds of $48,000,000,000 authorized by congress, and when broken down, it includes only $1,411,000,000 in actual transfers of materials.

Of the remainder, $448,000,000 is awaiting transfer or use, $128,000,000 is in process of manufacture, $126,000,000 was in repairing and servicing ships of United Nations, $243,000,000 was in the rental or charter of ships, and $170,000,000 was invested in production facilities in the United States.

Civilian Work Urged For Deferred Men

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP) Legislation empowering the President to assign deferred draft-age men to civilian positions he believes they should occupy in the war effort was proposed today by Representative Priest, Democrat, Tennessee.

The bill would amend the draft act so the President could exercise that authority over men deferred for reasons of occupation, dependents or disabilities.

Bill Is Signed For Payments To Jane Hawk

$10,125 Awarded Father, Guardian of Popular Atlantan.

President Roosevelt has signed legislation for payments totalling $10,125 to J. L. Hawk, Atlanta druggist, as the father and guardian of Jane Hawk, for injuries the popular school girl suffered in an automobile accident.

The President's action followed recent enactment of the legislation by congress, and was for payment for personal injuries, medical expenses and property damage.

The payments are $5,000 to the guardian and $5,125 to the father.

Miss Hawk was injured by an automobile driven by a special delivery messenger of the Atlanta postoffice in October, 1939. Her father claimed he had expended $5,125 prior to February 1, 1941, for doctors, nurses, medical supplies and car repairs.

An attractive brunette, Miss Hawk was a student at Washington Seminary at the time of the accident, which occurred during rush week for her sorority, Sigma Delta.

The following year, she was named president of the sorority. Although paralyzed in the lower part of the body, Miss Hawk has attended many sorority dances and other affairs, in a wheel-chair.

She also plays bridge and retains interest in the world around her, despite her present handicap. Friends term her "one of the most thoughtful girls who ever lived," and she is extremely popular among the school set.

U. S. Freighter Malama Called Lost in Pacific

Navy Announces Vessel Is Presumed To Have Been Sunk.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP) The Navy announced today that the Matson Navigation Company's freighter "Malama" is presumed to be lost in the Pacific.

The Malama, a 3,275-ton steam vessel, was built in 1919 at Newark, N. J., by the Submarine Boat Corporation. Her home port was San Francisco.

The Malama was the last ship which the Navy announced under its old policy of identifying lost or presumed to be lost vessels by name and tonnage. Hereafter, a policy of withholding identification of ships sunk will be followed, the Navy announced, although spokesmen said that occasionally, for a short while, names may be given in instances where the ships have been identified beforehand by other sources.

President of Brazil Recalls Ships, Cites Power To Make War

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 11.—(AP)—Brazil was given pointed notice tonight that President Getulio Vargas holds single-handed power to declare war, and further indication of this nation's approach to open hostilities appeared in the withdrawal of all Brazilian merchant ships from seas where at least four have been sunk by the Axis.

President Vargas by decree reiterated his constitutional powers to declare war or a state of national emergency and cleared the way for seizure of Axis subjects and property without further ado. Brazil's anger toward the Axis was indicated by headlines on the latest known sinking, news of which was withheld until early tonight.

Diario Do Noite carried the big line: "Reich Goes on Assassinating Brailians."

Axis Crime.
An editorial in the government-controlled A Noite was headed: "One More Axis Crime."

O Globo blamed the sinkings on Fifth Columnists, "who spread along the whole coast and who are supplying Hitler's submarines."

Confiscation of Axis property in Brazil was expected, orders on what to seize already having been drafted.

Brail broke relations with the Axis on the last day of the Pan-American conference, which in January unanimously recommended such a rupture.

Accusations again Japan of improper treatment of Brazilian diplomats have followed, but it is the sinkings of Brazilian ships in the Atlantic in the past three weeks which have brought Brazil to the sharpest of cross-purposes with the Axis.

Sailings Halted.
Sailings of Brazilian merchantmen to the United States were suspended and all those en route were ordered home or to the nearest port. It was on this route that Axis submarines sank the four Brazilian vessels.

A fifth ship, the freighter Cabedelo, which left Philadelphia 28 days ago, is six days overdue in Brazil, a spokesman for the government shipping line announced.

Informed yesterday of the loss of the 5,132-ton Cayru, President Vargas spent the day conferring with Foreign Minister Oswaldo Arana and the acting minister of justice, Vasco Leijao da Cuna, preparing the counteraction indicated in today's decree.

The decree took the form of amendments to the constitution of November 10, 1937, under which Brazil already was in a state of emergency and the President was enabled to declare a state of war.

The only major chance was authorization for the President to suspend constitutional guarantees to foreigners who practice acts of aggression against Brazil or Brazilians.

War Seen Possible.
The fact that the decree also repeated partial texts of articles authorizing declarations of war or emergency was regarded by observers as a declaration, intended to focus public attention on these presidential powers — possibly meaning that the one relating to war might be applied soon.

Brazil declared war against Germany in the World War as a result of shipping losses.

Having lost 22,231 tons of shipping since February 14, Brazil was believed likely to decide to await organization of a convoy system before continuing the voyages cancelled today by the government shipping line, Lloyd Brasileiro.

Vargas, who seized power in Brazil in 1930, has ruled that country longer than any other man since the empire was abolished in 1889.

Elected president in 1934, he has exercised dictatorial power since November 10, 1937, when he abolished the old constitution and proclaimed a "new state."

House Extends Investigations Of Dies Group

Fourth Continuance Is Given Committee Despite Critics.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP)—The House voted today to continue the life of its special Committee on Un-American Activities, headed by Representative Dies, Democrat, Texas, from April 1 to January 3, 1943.

It was the fourth extension given the committee, which was created in April, 1938, and has been continued from year to year with appropriations of approximately $400,000.

During debate critics charged the committee had been lax in investigating Fascists, while a committee member, Representative Thomas, Republican, N. J., called it "the most successful weapon against fifth columnists."

"It has failed to investigate the real Fascists and Nazis in this country that are really doing harm," said Representative Sabbath, Democrat, Illinois.

Representative Mason, Republican, Illinois, a committee member, followed with a statement that the character of the committee's enemies and friends "tell the story in a nutshell."

Among the enemies Mason listed Fritz Kuhn, former German-American Bund leader, the Communist party and its fronts, the National Lawyers Guild, the International Labor Defense and the International Workers' Order.

Representative Marcano, American Labor, New York, interrupted Mason to assert that "the Ku Klux Klan endorses the Dies Committee." The New Yorker has been one of the most persistent critics of the committee.

Dies himself charged that "more money has been spent in the last four weeks to discredit this committee" than Congress would appropriate for the committee's work when it is continued.

The continuance resolution carried no appropriation, but Dies earlier had said he would ask for approximately $100,000 for the nine additional months.

The maximum age limit for freshmen and sophomores is 22 years.

Leaders are suspected of entertaining admiration for Germany, Vargas himself early adopted a policy of favoring the United States and Pan-American co-operation during the war.

Brazil was one of the leaders at the Rio de Janeiro conference in January which recommended severance of Axis relations by all the Americas. She herself has broken relations with Germany, Italy and Japan.

Argentine Aid Seen
For Brazil in Crisis

BUENOS AIRES, March 11.—(AP)—A high government source declared tonight that in case of war between Brazil and the Axis powers Argentina would give "reciprocal assistance" to her neighbor nation, meaning that Brazil would be declared non-belligerent.

Foreign Minister Enrique Ruiz Guinazu, in close touch with the situation, obtained first-hand information on Brazil's attitude in a talk with the Argentine ambassador to Rio de Janeiro, Eduardo Labougle, who arrived here for a short vacation.

Labougle declined to discuss the details of this conversation, but he told the press he was impressed "by the unity and spirit of Brazil's citizens at this time."

Brazil's ambassador here, Jose Rodriguez Alves, did not call at the chancellery but was reported keeping in touch by telephone with Ruiz Guinazu.

Of the defeat in Java, Gerbrandy said that the American and Dutch fleet in Netherlands Indies waters was less than one-third the size of the Japanese armada protecting the 60-odd transports which carried the Japanese invasion troops, but that the Allies nevertheless inflicted upon the Japanese a severe blow.

The Japanese covering fleet, he said, consisted of 14 cruisers, 55 destroyers, 25 submarines and five aircraft carriers.

Now the Netherlands fleets is being reorganized, Gerbrandy said. "For the time being, our war in the Pacific will be mainly guerrilla war, but in 1943 it will be an offensive in a larger association together with the Allies, when sea and air supremacy will be obtained," the Premier said.

After describing current events briefly, Gerbrandy said:

"Such, in short, is the present situation. Shall we sit with folded arms? Shall we admit what the German accomplices call out to us derisively—'You see that the whole policy of collaboration with the democratic state has led to calamity.'"

"I am convinced that every true Netherlands has the answer ready, while many already have given a clear answer."

Gerbrandy cited as bright spots in the "dark clouds" the maintenance of Allied communication lines in the Atlantic, the loss of millions of Axis soldiers in Russia, the protection of the Suez Canal and the fact that "the so-called Italian empire has been smashed to smithereens."

"This war is and remains a world war," Gerbrandy said in advising the Dutch to bear up in this difficult hour as the British did in May of 1940. "In this struggle the temporary fall of the Netherlands East Indies is but an incident."

Easiest Target.

"Our situation in Europe and Asia happens to be the one offering the easiest target. This is a heritage of our fathers which we must accept. But the struggle, in its entirety, continues."

The Premier said the Allied fleets fought valiantly in the sea of Java against the Japanese invasion fleet.

The attack upon the line of transports, covered by submarines, failed, however, and an important part of the Allied fleet was lost.

"After vigorous defense for 12 days, the issue was decided. Against fourfold superiority on land and 10-fold in the air, the struggle became desperate," he said.

Gerbrandy said the defeat in the Indies for the Netherlands was "more serious because the occupation of the N. E. I. is much more destructive than it was in Europe."

Tony Pastor Says Music Spurs Morale

Entertainment World Patriotism-Conscious, He States.

By CAROLYN MCKENZIE.

Jive makers and waltz arrangers play an important role in American defense—they'll cut their niche in the offensive, too, when that time comes, for the business of the swing bands and the rumba groups is to spur American morale.

The public likes "The White Cliffs of Dover" and "The Marine Hymn," but for public spirit molding the jive band leaders choose "Goodmorning, Mr. Zip, Zip, Zip" or "You're a Sap, Mr. Jap."

As yet, the ever-writing composers' pens haven't hit on a World War II classic like "Over There." But they're working.

Tony Pastor, for example, the man with the band for 1942, spent his free time in Atlanta yesterday rehearsing "Fighting Doug MacArthur," which is a peppy new tune his boys will record next week.

They have another little novelty number called "Fighting Air Raid Warden," which seems to be an Office of Civilian Defense instruction sheet set to music. But they whip into "the orders" and "oomph" which America needs to build morale and make folks know they're right when they say "We'll win this war."

Pastor, the chubby musician whose "Let's Do It, Let's Fall in Love" song pushed him well up

Free French Column Captures Axis Outpost

LONDON, March 11.—(AP)—The Free French column from central Africa which struck recently into southern Libya has pushed on and captured the Axis outpost of Temessa, 125 miles northeast of Murzok, Free French headquarters announced tonight.

Italian prisoners were taken and important documents seized as the column, under General Leclerc, advanced through central Libya, in the desert country some 475 miles southeast of Tripoli.

A correspondent with the force said the smaller posts of Tejerri, El Uigh Ghebir and El Gatrour were seized en route to Temessa.

LONDON HOLDS BANKER.

LONDON, March 11.—(AP)—Viscount Hisakira Kano, former manager of the London branch of the Yokohama Specie Bank, has been detained under an internment order, it was announced today.

on the ladder, rolled his saxophones and clarinet back yesterday to view his observations on the entertainment world's awakening since war.

"We aren't playing any sad stuff. Folks hear enough of that on the streets, or read it in the papers, or learn it through radio broadcasts. When they come to entertainment centers they want stuff to make them pat their feet and clap their hands and forget that the Japs have moved in on Java and that they're lunging toward Australia and India."

The whole entertainment world is patriotism-conscious, he said. Take his band, for example. The boys wear blue suits, white shirts and red ties and all wear "V" buttons in their lapels and "Vs" on their music racks.

Two Freight Trains Halted by AFL And CIO Pickets

PEORIA, Ill., March 11.—(AP)—Pickets from the ranks of the AFL and CIO, who volunteered their aid to members of brotherhoods striking against the Toledo, Peoria and Western Railroad, halted two freight trains today, but a third picked up speed and rumbled through their lines.

Subcommittee To Study City's Water Sources

Step Taken After Warning Is Issued by Engineer.

Following publication in The Constitution last week of a warning by N. P. Pratt, consulting engineer, that Atlanta should safeguard its only existing untapped water resources, Alderman Frank H. Reynolds and Councilman James E. Jackson yesterday named a special subcommittee of the water committee to pursue the project.

Specifically, they will confer with P. S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power Company, upon means to obtain water sources in north Georgia, reputedly but 40 miles by air from Atlanta, now in the company's possession.

The demonstrators stopped two trains—one from the Burlington road and the other from the Peoria & Pekin Union road—as they approached the T. P. & W. yards in East Peoria. A half hour discussion ensued and the crews backed the trains away from the scene.

The engineer of a T. P. & W. freight, leaving the yards later, opened the throttle and the pickets scrambled from the tracks as it sped past them.

The men from the AFL and CIO unions first appeared at the yards last night to support 104 members of the Brotherhoods of Railroad Trainmen and Locomotive Firemen and Engineers who started a strike against the T. P. & W. last December 28.

However, operations have continued on the road—a 239-mile line running from Effingham, Ind., to Keokuk, Iowa, and used as a by-pass around Chicago in some transcontinental freight hauls as well as for handling grain, war materials and other cargoes for industries in this area.

Strikers charged the road employed "strikebreakers" and all efforts to arrange a settlement have failed.

Last month the War Labor Board, in its "first compulsory arbitration order," directed the railroad to arbitrate. George P. McNear, president of the T. P. & W., declined to comply. The National Railway Mediation Board sent mediator John F. Murray to Peoria last week to arrange for arbitration, but none of the railroad executives attended the conference.

The Brotherhood members struck in protest against changes in rules and working conditions. They contended their earnings would be reduced and seniority no longer would be recognized as the sole basis for assigning jobs. The company maintained the workers' incomes would be increased and calculated the scale on a straight time, eight-hour day basis would be $9.56 for engineers, $8.36 for conductors, $7.40 for firemen and $7 for brakemen.

Georgians' Bill Is Protested by Labor Leaders

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP)—The CIO and AFL combined efforts today to defeat a house measure requiring government registration of labor unions, trade and business associations, as the senate heard a request by Senator Lee, Democrat, Oklahoma, for the immediate passage of anti-strike legislation.

In statements to the House Judiciary Committee, both William Green, president of the AFL, and Philip Murray, CIO chief, denounced the registration measure proposed by Chairman Vinson, Democrat, Georgia, of the House Naval Affairs Committee.

"We cannot afford," Murray said, "to take time out from our drive to victory in order to engage in a revival of the petty sniping and labor baiting which a bill of this type represents."

Green asserted the bill would destroy the voluntary character of labor unions and would not "remove any instance of labor racketeering that may exist."

Meanwhile, Lee was telling the senate the question of "racketeering" in labor unions should be studied and prevented.

"It is not right for an American to have to pay for the privilege of working," he declared.

Lee made it clear that he felt organized labor had kept its December pledge of "no strikes" in defense industries, but that because of "some exceptions to this fine pledge of loyalty" by "a small percentage of labor and management groups," he believed anti-strike legislation should be passed at once.

In the house, Representative Gibson, Democrat, Georgia, disclosed in an interview that he had prepared legislation to amend the national labor relations act to require unions to submit annual financial statements to their members.

The legislation, which he said was prepared at the request of the Railroad Yardmasters of America, would also make inter-union strikes illegal, require a 60-day "cooling-off" period before a strike could become effective, permit voluntary joining or forming of organizations, and prohibit use of union funds for political purposes.

The Vinson measure would require the labor and business groups to register annually with the secretary of commerce, and to file a list of their officers and details of their liabilities and assets.

Vinson said the measure was drafted following an investigation by his committee into naval contracts. A majority report said the investigation had disclosed a "vast concentration of wealth" in the hands of labor organizations.

Episcopalians Discuss War's Spiritual Needs

Church Workers Urged To Co-operate at Parley Here.

By CAROLINE MCKENZIE.

America's greatest migration of persons, caused by shifting military personnel, is increasing the duty of churches to communities. The Rev. Almon Pepper, executive chairman for the Department of Christian Social Relations, told a council of Episcopal church workers here yesterday.

"The government supplies the required educational and recreational help for the moving populace, but the church has twofold duty. Church executives must find military persons, welcome them and work with them. Then they must co-operate with all other community organizations devoted to defense activities," he said.

Episcopalians from the southern states met at the Biltmore hotel for a discussion of Christian Social Relations during war time. The meetings extend through today when interest focuses on rural problems facing the Episcopal churches.

"The church must more than ever be the church," Pepper continued. "There will be new and complex social responsibilities which the parish church must meet. Some of these cannot be anticipated at the present time. A parish organized for service will be prepared to meet situations as they arise."

The special task of parish churches in camp communities, he pointed out, is to get in touch with the church members who have come to the nearby Army camp or naval station.

He urged local churches to co-operate with chaplains so military men and their families may continue their worship just as they would at home in peacetime.

Dean Raimundo de Ovies cancelled his usual Lenten service last night at St. Philip's cathedral to permit members of his congregation to attend the council's sessions.

Washington 'Action' Requested at Madison

MADISON, Ga., March 11.—Madison and Morgan county citizens have sent a wire to the Georgia senators and congressmen asking for "united action" on the part of "our servants in Washington" during the war crisis.

The wire was as follows: "In this terrible crisis involving our national security, we, officials and citizens of Madison, Morgan county, Georgia, insist and implore united action on the part of our servants in Washington; viz, the President, congress, cabinet and other officials entrusted and empowered with authority to defend and protect America from enemies within and without."

"We implore that the forces of labor and capital be co-ordinated and dedicated to one supreme task—the construction of ships, guns, tanks and planes for our national defense. Give us action, action, action."

Latins Need U. S. Cash, Says Banker

NEW YORK, March 11.—(AP)—Eduardo de Villaseñor, director general of the Bank of Mexico, said today United States capital must enter Latin American enterprises if those nations are to continue purchasing United States goods.

The dislocation of international trade caused by the war, Villaseñor said in an interview, threatens stagnation of United States economy and world trade, but he indicated a belief that could be avoided by a flow of investment to Latin America.

Such investments may result from the closer co-operation between South and Central America and the United States because of the war, he said.

"We may be on the eve of a period of greater foreign investments in Mexican industry," the banker commented prior to a visit of industrial plants in this area.

Air Corps Jobs Papy Pleased

Yesterday Offered to Civilian Fliers Training Gains

Army Is Ready To Pay Service Pilots $300 Per Month.

The Army Air Corps wants civilian pilots between the ages of 21 and 41 with commercial licenses and will commission them as service pilots at $300 per month, Major General George E. Stratemeyer, commander of the Southeast Training Center at Montgomery, announced yesterday.

Applicants will be given a month's refresher course at basic schools at Macon, Montgomery, Greenville, Miss., and Sumter, S. C., he said. He added he had been authorized to employ 100 such pilots monthly until June 30. Those passing the refresher course will be commissioned and assigned to testing aircraft, instructing cadets, ferrying and other duties. Successful candidates below the age of 32 will be commissioned as second lieutenants, although outstanding applicants who have reached the age of 25 and have had 1,000 or more credited pilot hours, may be recommended for commissions as first lieutenants.

Stratemeyer suggested that interested civilian pilots write him for appointments, outlining training and experience, including types of planes flown.

Although he said he did not have complete figures on policemen and firemen for the city, Currie reported 40 policemen had been graduated in the county and 364 were in training. Auxiliary firemen being trained outside of the city number 123, he said.

Papy said the important thing right now was to get the training "on an even keel" and urged that the emphasis be put on air raid wardens, policemen, firemen, medical corps and control centers.

The co-ordinator added he hoped to work out immediately some plan for co-ordinating public works crews in the district, so that they would know what jurisdiction they had in the event of an air raid.

One point emphasized at the meeting was that instructors should teach the courses as outlined in the manuals and not bring in other information unrelated to the subject.

Attending the meeting were Papy, Currie, H. Carl Wolf, General E. G. Peyton, city commander; Colonel Richard C. Job and Julian Harris, of the state committee, and Clint Davis, chief air raid warden for the state.

Stripping for Action

In preparing a vessel for action, everything that might splinter, everything unnecessary that possibly could break loose or otherwise affect the fighting quality of the ship is put ashore or thrown overboard. Many of these things are virtual necessities in time of peace.

The shakeup of the naval high command has much the same characteristic. In peacetime the chief of naval operations is charged primarily with the assignment of vessels and the long-range planning necessary to keep the fleet ready to meet any possible contingency. The commander-in-chief of the United States fleet is charged with the tactical operation of the fleet and the maintenance of its fighting quality afloat. Now, the dual responsibilities are intrinsically one and the peacetime structure presents defects that the President wisely has eliminated.

In a sense, the work of Admiral Stark was done when war was declared. He had accomplished whatever it had been in his power to accomplish, and the whole direction of the fleet by necessity must pass to a commander chosen for his action potential. And Admiral Stark goes to a post in which his specialty is extremely vital. Actually, while he is designated as commander of United States forces in European waters, he again goes to a planning post in which any conjoined operations of the British and American navies to meet specific threats which might arise at any time will be his chief preoccupation.

Too great a stress probably will be laid upon the air experience of Admirals King and Horne—King the new over-all head of the Navy; Horne the administrative officer of the functions of the chief of naval operations. This factor is significant, because King is a naval air pilot and Horne qualified as a naval flight observer and both have been commander, aircraft, battle force; and commander, aircraft, base force, Horne following King in both posts. What is more important than their air experience is the fact that both are exceptionally well-rounded officers with experience in operation of all types of vessels and that Horne particularly is familiar with the Far Eastern situation. He participated in some 15 engagements as a young officer in the Philippine pacification campaign and served four years as naval attaché in Tokyo.

Too much must not be expected immediately from the new command. Nothing of this sort can change the over-all picture of the war in a day. The Navy has an immense task ahead before it can be free to swing its full force in any single direction. Until it can, the naval picture will remain much as it is today with the ships of the American fleet harassing the Japanese, containing them and whittling down their strength. The United States fleet will get stronger with each passing day, the Japanese fleet weaker. Then when the fleet is free to act, the day of reckoning will come.

The cry for great offensive actions will get stronger, also, and the temptation to yield to that cry will be great. But before any offense can be started, the retreat must be stopped. This is one of the most difficult of all military operations. It is what makes the Russian winter offensive such a magnificent affair. The only way to stop the retreat which has been under way three months is to prepare and hold the strong points from which an eventual offensive can be started.

In our immediate case, these are Australia and Hawaii. The British must hold India on their side. We do not know how much help we have been able to get to Australia. We are assured the line of communication is secure— which, if true, means the Navy has accomplished a herculean task—but beyond that we do not know except that the so-called Farr incident and hints of other correspondents indicate there are great numbers of American troops in southern Australia.

The country now is stripped to a war-time, fast-moving command for both the Army and the Navy. It is the groundwork for the offensive, but the people of the nation must not yield to the clamor for hurried and unwise action which would compromise the whole war picture.

Horror—But Read It

Anthony Eden made official announcement, in London on Tuesday, of atrocities perpetrated against the people of Hongkong, regardless of race or color. That news report should be read by every individual among the Allied Nations. Particularly by every American.

For the people of this nation find it hard to believe such things can be true, in this day and time. They have accepted as axiomatic that torture of prisoners of war ended with the last of our own Indian wars. That it is a thing of the days of Genghis Khan, of Attila and of the pirates of the Barbary coast.

There can be no doubt, however, that atrocities and tortures as vile as any perpetrated in all history are being wreaked today upon the unfortunate residents of the cities and countries captured by the Japs. There can be no doubt, likewise, that the worst of those atrocities, the most shameful treatment, is accorded to Europeans, to British and Dutch and our own Americans. For it is the purpose of the Japanese to make occidentals "lose face" before the Asiatic peoples.

Anthony Eden's story was not made public until fully verified by reliable eyewitnesses who escaped from Hongkong.

It is a story of callous, brutal murder. It tells of British and Canadian boys, prisoners of war, bound hand and foot and bayoneted to death as "practice" for Japanese troops.

It is a story of wholesale rapine and rape. It tells of women, both European and Asiatic, raped and murdered. It tells how one entire district of the city was arbitrarily declared a brothel, a huge "red light" area, regardless of the type or status of the residents of that district.

We heard, weeks ago, how British and American prisoners had been forced to act as ricksha coolies for Japanese officers at Shanghai. Now comes this report from Hongkong.

The Japanese are piling up a fearful score of hate. Someday they will have to pay, in full, for every evil thing they do today. Let us, for all time, remember our own who die under fiendish Asiatic torture.

It is horrible, ghastly, sickening. But it is fact and, as such, we shall fight a better, a fiercer and a more relentless war if we read and remember.

The Girl Reserves

Girl Reserves of the nation will celebrate this Friday as Y. W. C. A. Junior Membership Day. All week they have been busily engaged in special activities designed to lead to the climax of this special day.

Atlanta Girl Reserves are taking full part in the national program. The Girl Reserves were first organized in 1881 and in Atlanta in 1915. They are girls between the ages of 12 and 18, working in fellowship with youth and adults in other democratic countries of the world, to make democracy their personal way of life and to improve the social status of the world in which they live.

These are modern girls, magnificent examples of the future race which will carry on, in war or peace, in the years to come. They learn practical things as well as idealism, and they have proven of tremendous value in community service.

Today they are extending that service to include special wartime activities. The Girl Reserves of America and of Atlanta constitute a vital asset of the nation.

Georgia Editors Say:

HOME GUARD?

(From the Royston Record.)
Adverse news from abroad should turn American heads to preparations at home. With every passing day the war approaches American shores more closely. A dispatch Monday described an Axis attack by a submarine on a South American port. Many think this attack may presage an early advance on some Western Hemisphere stronghold. The best war minds consider an eventual attack on the Western Hemisphere probable.

What are we doing to prepare for such an attack?
Singapore knew two months in advance of her fall that she would soon be under fire. But fall she did.

We are likewise warned.
To find out what is taking place on our home front—the Royston front, if you please—this paper investigated the recent activities of the home defense unit of the State Defense Corps and learned that, officially, there have been very few activities of this home guard unit.

More specifically, not one meeting of the local unit has been reported to state headquarters, because 80 per cent of the membership must be present before it is officially designated as a meeting. Eighty per cent of the local membership has never been present at a single meeting.

Guns were ordered last fall and were reported on their way. Members were measured for uniforms weeks ago, but that's as far as they got. The reason: Local units are not permitted to have equipment and uniforms unless 80 per cent answer every meeting's roll call.

THE WORLD TODAY

By JAY G. HAYDEN.

"SCATTER" POLICY? WASHINGTON, March 11.—The question of all others that members of Congress would like to investigate, if they could reach it without disclosing information valuable to the enemy, is the part pre-war lease-lend commitments played in obstructing reinforcement of the now defeated United Nations forces in the southwest Pacific.

There is a widely held impression on Capitol Hill that the United States is in serious danger of so dividing its men and equipment as to prevent our own forces from playing an effective part, without aiding our allies sufficiently to turn the tide in their favor. The congressmen say there are many members of the Army and Navy high command who in private conversation bitterly against what they term the prevailing policy of "scatter."

It is recalled in this connection that General John J. Pershing, during World War, never wavered in his insistence that American troops not be sent into the fighting until their numbers and material equipment were sufficient to take over a front of their own. Even when the British and French armies appeared on the verge of defeat in the spring of 1918, Pershing refused to consent to brigading American soldiers with the French. This policy was fully justified when the fresh American army, finally assembled in the summer of 1918, led the offensive that forced the tired Germans to surrender.

TO SHARE DEFEATS There is a great difference, say the congressmen, between sending merely materials to bolster foreign hopes, as was done in the belated attempts to save Yugoslavia and Greece, and the sending of pitifully small numbers of men to share defeats, as happened in the Dutch East Indies and Burma.

Lense-led, in the congressional viewpoint at least, was primarily designed to sacrifice property to save American lives. It was a political device conceived in the hope that if we supplied enough airplanes, tanks and dollars, the war could be won without our direct participation. From this standpoint, the policy of promising aid to literally dozens of nations and actually rushing supplies here, there and everywhere, to meet each crisis of the war as it occurred, generally was approved.

Somebody had better be thinking of something mighty quick, for these masses can't move back and forth to the factories the planes won't stream out the front doors.

Too Much 'System' And speaking of airplane factories, they apparently aren't as wonderful to work in as you might believe. They've simply got so big they're soulless, like institutions. The main complaint seems to be that there's too much straw-bossing and suspicion. I know one man who just couldn't stomach it, and quit. He says it was, "Don't stand here! Don't look there! Where are you going now? What's that bulge in your hip-pocket?" all day long. There was just too much "system" and too little humanity.

On the other hand, he wasn't all praise for the workers. He says there's an appalling amount of clock-watching and of standing around doing nothing.

He says that, on the morning after Pearl Harbor, he thought when he went to work that people would be working a little faster or a little more grimly or something. But he says he could see no change at all in anybody's attitude.

People Unchanged Despite sub-shellings and "air raids" and "defense work," I can't sense that the war has changed the people themselves in this area. Los Angeles seems just the same as ever.

People talk about their own apathy, and don't know what to ascribe it to, other than asking, "Well, what can I do to help?" In other words, there won't be full-fledged war feeling until everybody has something pretty vital taken away from him, or is given something pretty vital to do.

Of course that takes time. And also, government action may lag behind the people's willingness. That was true in England. The people were way ahead of the British government in their desire, even eagerness, to cut down on food more sharply, to be assigned things to do, to get in there and pitch. The government was always afraid to go too far for fear the people wouldn't stand for it, when what the people wanted was for the government to move boldly.

How did I get off on this subject anyway? I don't know anything about running a war.

Worried The other night I happened to stumble upon a lecture by Captain Harold Sweet, who is just back from China on a vacation. Captain Sweet is one of the Panair pilots who helped evacuate Hongkong. He has been flying in China for five years, and is soon going back. Sweet is gravely worried about America's inability to grasp the tightness of the spot we're in. It's supposed to be unpatriotic even to imagine that we could possibly lose this war, but Sweet intimates we'd be better off if more of us realized it is possible.

He has had five years of experience with the Japanese, and his opinion of their character isn't high. Somebody in the audience asked him how he thought the Japs were treating American prisoners. The details of his answer were interesting. He said:

"So far, I think they're treating them exceptionally well. There are several reasons.

"First, Japan is proud and flattered to be at war with us. It puts her in the big leagues. Second, she's as startled over her successes as we are. And third, she's trying to act like a first-class nation, and part of that imitation is to treat prisoners decently.

"But, just let her get a few lickings, and the Japs will revert to type and start their torture, and then our prisoners will suffer."

And then he went on to tell of the butchery he saw in Nanking, when the conquering Japs simply killed and tortured and maimed until they were exhausted, and left three-quarters of a million needlessly dead Chinese stacked up in the streets.

all about her except those lovely pink stockings she wore on her splendidly exposed legs.

I never got nearer her than a seat in the stalls. I suppose she was, in all probability, old enough to be my mother. I suppose her voice was cracked and off-key. I suppose her costume was worn and not too clean.

But, to my dying day, I'll remember those enchanting pink stockings.

I wish there were shows today, and pink stockings, like my imagination remembers, quite falsely, from so long ago.

She of the Pink Stockings. While confessing, might as well mention one of my first loves. She was a soubrette. I've forgotten covered in the covered glass auditorium on the long pier—admission 6d—a troupe known as the "Scarlet Mr. E's." No one ever got greater pleasure out of grand opera than this youngster got out of the performance of this half dozen. They wore long scarlet capes and black half-masks and were advertised as really famous singers and entertainers from London's West End, who were doing this stunt as a holiday frolic. It would ruin their towering reputations in the theater and the concert world if their true identities were known, said the advs.

I believed it, utterly.

Liverpool and The Royal Court. There is a theater in Liverpool—it was still there in 1939 and still is if the bombers haven't got it—known as the Royal Court. My father was fearfully strict and to London's West End, who were doing this stunt as a holiday frolic. It would ruin their towering reputations in the theater and the concert world if their true identities were known, said the advs.

I believed it, utterly.

I found a blackface minstrel show on the sands, three or four frowzy—I know they must have been frowzy, today. Then I thought them marvelous creatures. I stood entranced on the outer fringe of their circle of onlookers, and thought their songs the wistful and gayest things in all the world and laughed immoderately at their jokes. I even slipped a highly valued penny in the hat when they came round collecting.

I made the mistake of repeating, at home that night, one of the jokes I'd learned from the minstrels. To my innocent mind it was merely funny, but as it happened it was rather off-color. Riskie, if you know what I mean. My mother was horrified, made searching inquiry as to where I'd heard it and the whole story came out. Much to my discomfort.

Pierrots In the Pavilion. Then there were the pierrots in the pavilion. A troupe of entertainers wearing the ordained pierrot costume—baggy white pants and coat, white sugar-loaf hat, the whole adorned with a few big black pom-poms. How those boys could sing, how wonderfully clever they were according to my memory.

There was that never-to-be-forgotten chorus with which they opened each show, "I'm the Major of the Band." Was there ever a chorus with such a swing, such life, such music, such verve! And, stepping up in the scale of popular entertainment, I dis-

Fewer Autos LOS ANGELES, March 11.—The local people say they can't notice it, but I will swear that auto traffic in Los Angeles is not quite as thick now as it used to be. Surely some people have laid up their cars.

The laying-up process is likely to snowball rapidly from now on. Tires are wearing out. I have one friend who is almost frantic. His tires are just hanging from day to day, and he has to drive a long way to work. He's in defense work, too.

Apparently there is little boot-logging of tires, but my friend hasn't even been able to get in touch with a "tirelegger." He's had two or three up-the-alley tips, but they all turned into nothing at the last minute.

One thing that worries me is whether any plans are being made for mass transportation when the private tires give their last pop. Out here it is especially bad, because in these sprawled-out southern California areas many people are driving 40 and 50 miles each day to work.

Somebody had better be thinking of something mighty quick, for these masses can't move back and forth to the factories the planes won't stream out the front doors.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

GIVE US THE WAR It is about time, I think, they let us have our war. We need to have it given to us because as yet we don't really realize it is our war and that we've got to go on with all we have.

The ships that are sunk on our front pages every day never seem to get off those pages; never seem to be real ships.

I've seen persons read the news and shake their heads and turn on to something else. It wasn't real. It was just a ship sunk in a far-off country with names out of mythology—Bali, Borneo, Celebes, Java, Bataan, and so on. There were Americans on it, but somehow they never seem real to the people reading the news. They weren't real ships or real men.

Even MacArthur and his men, fighting from their mountaintop and holding on despite odds of 15 to 1, lack a certain reality. They are like gods—heroic, mighty, and yet somehow far away and mystic in their greatness.

We don't see the sweat, the dirt, the wounds, the dying men, and we don't hear any of the horror of sound as this symbol of America fights on and on against impossible odds.

We see it do some mighty things. We hear that all over the Pacific men are saying grimly: "Look at those damn fellows, holding on. The British lost Hongkong. They lost Singapore in eight days. They and the Dutch lost Java. But those damned Americans are holding on. If they were just all Americans..."

It may not be just. But they are saying it and it is the peoples of other nations who are saying it. We see the Chinese appoint an American as chief of staff. We see all over the world more faith in America than some of us have here at home. The world is looking to us and they see that it will be slow; that disasters will come as we gather our strength. But they have faith.

We can't feel the war. The telegrams beginning "The War Department regrets to inform you—" are beginning to come more frequently, but even so the grief has not yet become our own.

It is time, I think, we have again what we had before when soldiers died in this country—

The sound of marching through the streets with the heavy, solemn sound of Chopin's march saddening the air while men and women stood on the sidewalks and wept.

We need parades between trains. We need flags and bands. We need to see the men and to look into their faces and to feel a swift pride and a bond that tightens.

THE PEOPLE KNOW One of the worst mistakes all sorts of governmental, is not trusting in the essential decency and good sense of the people.

Give the people their war. You will see production increase. You will not see business and labor working for profits and wages, as so many of them are today. You will see them working for the men in the Army, Navy and Marines.

The riveting machines will go faster. The drills will send up their raucous chatter without ceasing. The mills will hum. Industry will, in the face of public opinion, get to work with its men.

Let us have our war to weep over, to pray over. Let us see our men marching, let us see our flag in the wind, the faces of our soldiers as they move across our country. We do not want to know where they are going. But let us see them.

There never has been a war like this in which all we have is in the balance. And to date it has seemed so far away and the news has been hushed and the trains have passed in the night and the bands have not played for us and the men marched before us. The people can be trusted.

THE SAME BOYS Because, you see, the people know that all our men are just like MacArthur's men. He and his troops have been steeled by fire and no man really is a soldier until he has been under fire.

But they are not exceptions. All our men are like that. And the people know it. But what they don't know is that we have to have time. We can't take away from Iceland one plane or one man. We must give them enough to fight for a year. So with all our other bases wherever we are building them.

We have a plan. The quick loss of Singapore and Hongkong was unexpected. But the plan goes on. We talk much of how Germany, after seven intensive years of planning and manufacture, was ready for war. And she was.

But, do you remember the "phony war?" It lasted about eight months. Germany wasn't ready for the attack through Holland and into Belgium and France. She had to have eight months of working out her plan.

We've been in a little more than three months. Actually, our plan, whatever it is, is just beginning to be put into action. We must man and equip base after base. We must gather a great force to strike because an early, ill-prepared blow would fail. Only a fool would talk of an immediate offensive on a large scale by this country at this time.

We aren't ready. Germany, for all her readiness, needed almost a year before she struck at Holland. We will need the spring, and summer. There will be more black days. There were in the last World War. The days were black from 1914 until the very last days of the war in 1918.

Meanwhile, I think it's time we had our war. Give it to us to weep over, to laugh over, to shout over. Give us parades and cheering and the sight of their faces. And if death comes give us the sound of that, too. It is our war.

The Best Soldiers Are Beaten If They Lose Faith in Their Captain

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

You gentlemen in Washington—you elected or appointed great ones who are trusted with power and paid handsomely to safeguard the welfare of the people—do you not realize what harm you are doing?

You live now in a glare of light, and the people watch your every move, for their very lives depend upon the things you do.

If you destroy their confidence in the government, you will certainly destroy this nation.

When you voted yourselves pensions, could you not realize what effect that would have on the minds of the people? You say it was a little thing, and so it would have been in other times. A match is a little thing, too, but not in a powder house.

Some of you now plan to remove all price controls and allow the price of meat and bread to go higher and higher and higher. Don't you know what effect that has on public morale?

The people are sacrificing now to pay taxes and buy bonds and give to the Red Cross. Do you think they will keep on sacrificing as cheerfully when you deliberately make it harder?

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

It cannot be regarded as less than highly significant that the editors of Newsweek gave prominent position in their magazine last week to the words of George Washington in a general order issued in July, 1776, on profanity in the Army. Beneath the now famous words of Washington, the editors of Newsweek put these lines: "Washington's plea against cursing is commended to the Army of today."

Here follows the general order of Washington: "The general is sorry to be informed that the foolish and wicked practice of profane cursing and swearing, a vice heretofore little known in an American army, is growing in fashion. He hopes the officers will, by example as well as by influence, endeavor to check it, and that both they and the men will reflect that we can have little hope of the blessing of Heaven on our arms, if we insult it by our impurity and folly. Added to this is a vice so mean and low without any temptation that every man of sense and character detests and despises it."

It is significant, I repeat, that a magazine like Newsweek should find it timely to carry this admonition from George Washington, definitely commending it to the Army of today. Is there any doubt in the reader's mind that the editors of this magazine would use their valuable space for such an admonition without reasoned cause?

Let us turn for a moment to the Bible for its comment on taking God's name in vain: "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain; for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh His name in vain." Exodus 20:7.

I must believe that the great majority of our men in the service are mindful of these solemn words of God regarding this terribly serious matter of taking His name in vain. I say that because I believe them to be the fine gentlemen they were when they en-

Would you believe any grown-ups, born and reared in a large city or residents for a number of years, have never ridden on a street car, trackless trolley or bus? It doesn't seem possible—but the Georgia Power Company thinks it's true, else the current issue of "Two Bells," the bright little pamphlet found in the public vehicles, would not be carrying a detailed article on how to hail a car, how to get on, how to pay a fare, where to sit, how to stop the car, how to get off.

These directions fill three pages, with comedy illustrations. The author calls it a "primer for our new riders." It's interesting reading and if you're still using your car you might ask your cook to bring you a copy. Unless she's her car, too.

I must have been all of six years old before I rode on a street car. But that was because I was a village lad. My first public service street car was of one-mule power. But shortly after that I proudly paid my nickel and rode an electric.

Yes, Geraldine, there are numerous Atlantes who have never entered a plebeian trolley or bus. They didn't consider themselves too aristocratic to do so—except in a few instances, perhaps—but their automobiles were more convenient. But they're riding street cars now—not to save money, but to save rubber. And perhaps this tered the service. And I further believe that officers and enlisted men alike recognize our utter dependence upon the blessings of God if we are to win this war. And I go further to say that I believe General Marshall would promptly discipline any man, be he enlisted man or high ranking officer, who deliberately and habitually profanes the name of God. I have recently heard of a case in which a high ranking officer was reported for such indiscretion, and I am confident that the case will be promptly investigated, and if the facts as alleged are verified, that he will be disciplined.

Meanwhile, let us faithfully observe the admonition of George Washington, soldiers and civilians alike, and also the solemn warning of God as recorded in Exodus 20:7.

Street Car Primer Tells How To Get on And How To Get Off

little "primer" will save them from acting like country yokels in a city for the first time. When Joe Johnson died in Atlanta last Saturday nobody could have grieved more sincerely than Alfred C. Newell, Atlanta life insurance man. For Joe Johnson's death left him the last of the "Six from Georgia," a group of Georgia newspaper men who went to New York in 1896 and made good on the "big time."

Joseph Johnson became most famous of them all. He went into New York politics after a stay with young William Randolph Hearst's new New York Journal, became fire commissioner, commissioner of public works, then to Twentieth-Century Fox. He was a power in the Democratic party for years. But he came home at last—to rest for his last years. He didn't rest long before he went on to the rest eternal.

John A. Heffernan, columnist, wrote a yarn about "The Six from Georgia" and printed it, back in 1937. Margaret Mitchell found it among her press clippings and sent it to Alf Newell, who lent it to me. I'm condensing Heffernan's story.

Two of the six were Bob and Tilden Adamson, brothers, from Jonesboro. Another was Walter Howard. Most picturesque was Remsen Crawford. Newell was one. And not course, Johnson. All had worked on Atlanta newspapers—The Constitution or the Journal or both.

Johnson went to Hearst. So did Howard. Bob Adamson became star reporter on the old New York World, with Pulitzer. Crawford worked on several New York papers. Tilden and Newell found places on the Brooklyn Eagle, then a powerful sheet.

Howard scooped the world for Hearst on the battle of Santiago. Newell also became a war correspondent during the Spanish War for the Eagle. Later he became one of the several confidential secretaries for the aging and nearly blind Pulitzer, who spent nearly all his time on his yacht—in search of silence, for his nerves were almost a total wreck. After that he came home—to become a leader in life insurance.

They're all gone now but Alf Newell. He is still commuting between his Atlanta office and Sea Island Beach and feeling fine.

Traveling correspondent of the new Chicago Sun reported back to home base a day or two ago with the news that trains in and out of Florida and the southeast are all cluttered up with soldiers going and coming or just traveling for some good reason—and he liked it. And so did everybody else.

"These lads just can't get over the idea they're on a troop train," he confided to his hostess. "Every time you stroll to the diner or the club car you'll see them undressing in the aisles or reading in a berth with almost nothing on. But nobody seemed to care. And how those boys can eat!"

"The civilian passengers got a great kick out of the soldiery," he continued. "Everybody wanted to talk to them, which was easy. The whole train became a club car—card games and soft drinks and beer, on the citizenry. And the children! The soldiers couldn't keep them off their laps—and didn't try."

"Some were officers and some were not—but they were all gentlemen. I never heard a complaint from anybody."

Pulse of Public

The Constitution invites expression of opinion by its readers. This column is open for that purpose. All communications must be signed and all are subject to editing for conservation of space. Brevity makes argument effective and impels attention.

INDEBTERED TO RED CROSS FOR AWAKENING PUBLIC

Editor, Constitution: We are indebted to the Red Cross and likewise to The Constitution for bringing before the public so forcibly the true situation.

We are in the midst of a cruel war in which it is possible to strike without a moment's notice; therefore, we must not be asleep. With due respect to those with noble intentions, it should not be said that here again in the United States we have not been "alert," and by awakening this section and indirectly the entire country, it is a real service.

Civilian defense is a heavy responsibility and those who assume this responsibility should be only too happy to have it backed up by the government so that the maximum efficiency can be obtained.

This is no child's play and must be handled 24 hours a day on a basis that will give us the greatest protection. But the fact that many of our good citizens are well intentioned will not serve, for in the case of crisis we need every protection.

If the Red Cross here in Atlanta, through the efforts of The Constitution, is able to awaken the public throughout the United States, then a real service has been performed. On the other hand, personal feelings in a great crisis such as this must be disregarded, for this is a case of life and death, outside of the fact that if there are serious accidents the citizens should receive the best attention.

Let us pray that Atlanta will never be attacked, but let us be prepared and let all of us be willing to realize that no matter what the sacrifice is we are prepared for it.

Personally, I want to congratulate Mr. Newell and The Constitution for bringing this forcefully to our attention for, after all, the public has been asleep.

ARMAND MAY.

ATLANTA.

BOYS AT CAMP BLANDING RARIN' TO GET AT FOE.

Editor Constitution: Again I have visited our boys at Camp Blanding. Our boys are mad! God help any Japs or Germans that come before them.

Our boys are studying. Studying war, guns, maps, mechanism, conditions under any situation the enemy might offer.

I loved the baseball game—for the Saturday afternoon they were boys again. The recreational center was jammed—boys just standing around; playing the piano, singing, writing home, group discussions. The library was crowded. Books were in every tent. Newspaper boys do a good business.

The Red Cross is really on the job. Our boys look to them as they looked to us, when home. They depend on the Red Cross. Thank God for the efficient, kindly spirit in the Red Cross. It is indeed a camp mother.

I'm sorry to report there is also a "Boomer Town" just outside the gate. Few of our boys visit there. The only remarks I heard were unfavorable.

The Civil War is over. The northern and the southern boys are brothers. "Nice fellows" is the summary from both groups.

Hate is necessary to win a war. Camp Blanding is teeming with hate. Our boys are restless, irritable, ready and raring to go. The south hates fiercely. Our boys are not our boys any longer. They are men—full of hate; men on edge; soldiers—ready for action. Look out, Japs, your days are numbered! LOIS BAILEY.

F. D. R. Nominates

44 More Generals

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP) President Roosevelt today nominated 12 brigadier generals to be major generals and 44 colonels to be brigadier generals. The average age of the major general nominees is 53 and that of the brigadier general nominees 49.

Major General Brehon B. Somervell, 49, of Little Rock, Ark., commander of the services of supply, was named a lieutenant general, the rank held by the commanders of the two principal divisions of the reorganized Army—the ground forces and the air forces.

Among those promoted to brigadier general was Colonel Alfred M. Gruenther, 43, of Omaha, who became widely known to contract bridge fans throughout the country for his activities as referee and director at tournaments when he was a mathematics instructor at West Point.

Mooney's Widow

Left Out of Will

SAN FRANCISCO, March 11.—(AP)—Tom Mooney's widow, Rena, from whom he had been estranged, was omitted from the labor leader's will, filed for probate today.

Mooney bequeathed his personal effects to his brother, John B. Mooney, and his sister, Anna Mooney, both of San Francisco, and left his books, records, correspondence and pictures to the University of California library. The cash estate was negligible.

Mooney died March 6, three years after his release from San Quentin prison, where he served 22 years on conviction of killing 10 persons in the bombing of San Francisco's 1916 Preparedness Day parade.

Alien Property Custodianship

Given Crowley

Gets Potential Control of $7,000,000,000 in Frozen Assets.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP) President Roosevelt today named Leo T. Crowley alien property custodian and gave him potential control over an estimated $7,000,000,000 frozen alien assets in the United States.

The President's orders, ending a behind-the-scenes controversy between Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau and Attorney General Biddle for control over such property, provides for a gradual transfer of alien property control from the treasury to the new custodian. Crowley's office will be a branch of the Office of Emergency Management.

The new custodian was given power to take over at any time any specific items of alien property, but said afterwards he expected the treasury to retain control over a large portion of the alien assets, particularly those which belong to foreign governments. His main concern, he explained, will be with the administration and conservation of foreign-owned businesses in this country.

Official headquarters of the new agency will be in Washington. Crowley will continue as chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, and likewise in private life as chairman and president of the Standard Gas & Electric Co., a $1,000,000,000 utility holding company with headquarters in Chicago.

As at present, Crowley will take no salary from the government.

BRITAIN BANS WHITE BREAD.

LONDON, March 11.—(AP)—

White bread is to disappear gradually from British tables and a national wheatmeal or dark bread is to take its place. Food Minister Lord Woolton announced today in the house of lords. Bakers will be allowed to continue making white bread until April 6. The action was taken to conserve shipping space.

War Powers

Bill Hits Snag In Conference

House Members of Joint Committee To Ask for Instructions.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP) The administration's broad "second war powers" bill ran into a temporary congressional deadlock today when a senate-house conference committee reported inability to compromise two disputed sections.

House members of the joint committee appointed to adjust differences over the omnibus measure agreed to ask new instructions from the house on these points:

A senate provision granting civilian defense workers, such as air-raid wardens, compensation for death or injury, on duty. The house rejected this.

A house provision placing a $5,000,000,000 limit on the amount of federal government securities which the Treasury may sell to Federal Reserve banks directly. The senate had voted to remove altogether the present requirements that bank purchases of government securities be on the open market.

Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, chairman of the senate conferees, said that all other provisions of the complicated legislation had been adjusted.

Retread, Recap

Machines Frozen

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP) The War Production Board today ordered the suspension of manufacture and delivery of equipment for tire retreading and recapping except to fill orders carrying priority ratings.

Because of a shortage of retreading equipment in some regions, WPB will grant priority ratings only after determining the present facilities in the applicant's locality, the anticipated need in the area, the amount of camelback (retreading material) expected to be made available in the region, and the number of orders for retreads placed before January 18, the date on which a freezing order was issued on the production of recapping machinery.

Much Untaxed Whisky

Destroyed at Augusta

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 11.—(AP) Nine thousand pounds of sugar went down the sink here in the destruction of untaxed whisky by revenue agents.

The agents discovered 911 gallons of untaxed liquor in a truck in Thomson, arrested the driver and brought the contraband here. They spent most of the day pouring out the illicit whisky. Officers said it takes 10 pounds of sugar to manufacture a gallon of whisky. The same quantity of whisky, agents said, would have required payment of $3,644 in federal taxes.

Lewis Turner Given 4 to 5 Years for Auto Theft.

Lewis Turner, convicted in connection with the murder of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ed Peek, of Atlanta, was paroled last month and then resented on an automobile theft charge, it was disclosed yesterday.

Turner, under sentence of one to three years in Cobb county in 1940 in the Peek case, was paroled last February 25 to Cobb County Commissioner George B. McMillan, a Cobb county deputy sheriff at the time of the slaying. Shortly after being paroled, Turner was sentenced to serve from four to five years on a car theft indictment returned against him in 1939 by Coweta county. He is now in the Coweta county jail at Newnan.

Commissioner McMillan said he had vouched for Turner's conduct during parole following a request from the convicted man's wife.

Records of the Prison and Parole Board showed Turner was paroled on a five-year sentence for simple larceny from Carroll county in October, 1939, in addition to the sentence in connection with the Peek case.

Bill Chappell, son of Carroll County Commissioner Hamp Chappell, is serving a life sentence for the slaying of the Atlanta couple. He is now in a prison camp near Moultrie.

People of France Still Loyal, Blum Cries in Court

RIOM, Unoccupied France, March 11.—(AP)—Leon Blum in a spell-binding closing peroration told the Riom court and representatives of the American republics today that he considered the French people still faithful to the republic and declared that he personally was ready to collaborate with the Communists to fight for it.

Blum, Socialist leader who headed France's popular front government, concluded his defense after two days of questioning in the war guilt trial with the words:

"We respected those who had faith in us. That faith is not worn out. It still exists. It will bear fruits in a future day in which we place all our hope."

Coming of Republic.
"This trial, directed against the republic, will itself hasten its coming."

The Axis, he said, was responsible for the war, and not the defendant French leaders.

Sitting in the diplomatic tribune were S. Pinkney Tuck, counselor of the United States embassy; Brazilian Minister De Melo and the Argentine military attaché, Colonel Quiroga.

In regard to his leniency toward Communists, Blum said that his coalition with them was induced by a threat to republican institutions, but that nevertheless he agreed to it only after Pierre Laval had signed a pact with Joseph Stalin, who abandoned "revolutionary defeatism" as it concerned France and after French Communists stopped advocating autonomy for Alsace-Lorraine.

Still Convinced.
"I was convinced and still am convinced," he said, "that it was impossible to defend republican institutions in France while excluding the mass of workers and skilled workers—including those following the Communists."

Then Blum said he was "not forgetting" Russia's present fight and added, "nor am I forgetting that in the occupied zone the Communist party furnishes a great proportion of the hostages."

Blum punctuated his defense with statements such as: "The authentic tradition of our country is a Republican Democratic tradition"; "The Workers have a right to strike," and "I do not know whether the real instigators are being looked for."

At one point he quoted Karl Marx.

Answers Accusers.
To the charge that he acted too leniently in dealing with strikers, Blum replied that his principal accusers were the same men who deplored the rough handling of rightist demonstrators who rioted in February, 1934, and he exclaimed: "As if there were two kinds of blood in France—bourgeois blood which one is a scoundrel to shed, and workers' blood which one is weakened to spare!"

Blum said he took pride in the fact that "the divine right of bosses is gone forever" as a result of the Popular Front.

Blum defended the nationalization of the arms industry, calling war profits a scandal and accusing the private arms industry, since war responsibility was in question, of war-mongering.

In 1937, he said, a representative of the Schneider Armament Works offered the Soviet ambassador to speed up work on Russian arms orders if his plants would escape nationalization.

Georgia Marine Accounts for Jap

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. ROME, Ga., March 11.—Private Richard Atkins, of the U. S. Marine Corps, son of Mrs. L. D. Atkins, of Rome, is nursing a wounded arm in a San Diego hospital, but a letter received by his mother tells how he made a Jap airman pay for his part in the raid on Pearl Harbor December 7.

The Roman arrived in Hawaii just two days before the sneak raid, he wrote, and when chaos broke loose that Sunday morning he and his pals were blasting away at the raiders. One of his pals shot down a Jap plane, and despite the fact Atkins had been shot in the arm, he was still fighting, too.

"When the plane fell," he wrote, "the pilot jumped out and started running and so I got the guy who shot me."

Pan-American Japs' Hongkong Circus Has All Crimes Told by Big Top Thrills Englishwoman

Small But Enthusiastic Crowd Witnesses Opening Night.

The Pan-American Circus, with headline acts from all parts of the circus world, brought to Atlanta under auspices of the Atlanta Woman's Club, opened last night at the Municipal Auditorium to a vast throng of empty seats.

The circus, with everything, including elephants, peanuts, sawdust, clowns, star performers, and everything except the canvas and the crowd, went through its stuff to a small, but enthusiastic crowd, giving a show to compare with anything that could be seen under the big top, and will continue to do so everyday, except Sunday, through next Tuesday.

Those who did come had an opportunity to sit back in comfortable seats, close to the two rings and the stage. They could see everything on the program from the grand opening, including horses, elephants, baboons and what not.

Bowling Elephant.
Included on the program are such stellar performers as "Eva," the world's most educated elephant, who winds up her act with a bowling game. After knocking over the pins, she carefully squirts down the alley, surveys the damage she has done, then walks over to a score board and chalks up her tally.

Then there is Miss Joan Spalding, the successor to the late Lillian Leitzel, who spins around just beneath the auditorium roof on a rope, emulating the feats of Leitzel.

Miss Spalding announced that tomorrow night she will attempt to exceed Miss Leitzel's record of pulling herself up and turning completely over while suspended by one hand.

Miss Leitzel's record was 253 turns, and Miss Spalding, who did more than 100 turns last night, apparently without the least effort, will attempt to make 255 of these turns tomorrow night.

Educated Horses.
Bud Anderson, the owner of a 40-car circus which travels west of the Mississippi, growing restless after three or four months' idleness, joined the show here last night.

Anderson, owner of several star circus acts, and a troupe of educated horses, was happy last night as he put his horses through their paces.

"I can't open my season under canvas for another month or six weeks," he said, "but this loafing was killing me, so I brought my horses over and asked Pan-American officials for a spot on their show. They granted my request, and so my horses and I are at work again. That makes all of us happy. I don't believe Atlantans realize what they are missing for this show has everything that can be seen under canvas, and those who don't see this show are really missing something."

Like the real artists which they are, the performers went through

Phyllis Harrop Verifies Atrocity Charges of Anthony Eden.

CHUNGKING, March 11.—(AP)—Phyllis Harrop, first foreign woman to escape from Japanese-occupied Hongkong, gave an eyewitness account today of the atrocities committed by the invaders, in complete confirmation of the report before Britain's house of commons yesterday by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

Miss Harrop, whose anticruelty crusades won her the name of "Hongkong's District Attorney Dewey," said both Chinese and Europeans were victims of the invaders.

"My own houseboy was killed—bayoneted in the stomach for no apparent reason," she declared. "Fourteen other Chinese in the same house were killed. My own Amah (woman servant) was raped by three or four Japanese soldiers and left in a very serious condition."

"Foreign women also were raped, including an Englishwoman I knew who first was slashed in the face with a soldier's belt. Her husband afterwards found her dead with bayonet wounds in the stomach."

"The Japanese did not shoot any of their victims, but invariably bayoneted them to death."

Miss Harrop, an Englishwoman who escaped from the former Crown Colony in mid-January, said all American, Dutch and British men, women and children were interned in the Stanley district of Hongkong island, while prisoners of war were interned at their acts last night with all the vim, vigor and vitality they would have exhibited had they been performing before a turn-away audience.

"The show must go on," a clown said as he was waiting for his entrance cue. "The rest of them are putting on the best they have, and I will to. Maybe Atlanta does not know what an indoor circus is like. Here's a real opportunity to show them, and those people ahead of me have shown them. Believe me, I won't disappoint my fellow-performers and let up on my work. I'm going through the act just as if there were 20,000 spectators out there. We'll teach Atlantans they don't have to sit under a big top to see a first class circus. Maybe the next time we come here, as an indoor circus, they will turn out in a big way."

Stellar Acts.
Such stellar acts as the Fearless Flyers, known throughout the circus world, the two Kays, who, blindfolded, skate around on a table, not much larger than a dime; the Pina troupe of tumblers, featuring "Papa Pina," who is only 68 years old, and the most active of the troupe, the Four Harrisons, horizontal bar artists; the Herdings, tumblers and clowns; the Four Merrills, Maximo, Senior Juan and his tight wire artists, and Senior Antonio, a juggling artist.

The show ran smooth last night. There was something doing all the time. The few children who attended could be heard throughout the vast auditorium squealing with joy, while their parents were kept busy applauding the performers.

The circus will continue twice daily, at 3:30 o'clock each afternoon and again at 8 o'clock each night during the week. Circus fans who would like to sit back and enjoy a circus should not miss this one, for each and every act is a good one. The atmosphere is there, for the sawdust has been most generously scattered over the big arena floor of the auditorium, and the spectators can sit back in comfort and go from one circus act to another without a moment's delay.

House Kills 2 Flood Control, Power Projects

Rivers and Harbors Bill Shelved Because of Solons' Temper.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP)—The House killed two flood control and power projects in connection with a War Department appropriation bill today and administration leaders decided to shelve temporarily the separate $1,000,000,000 rivers and harbors bill "because of the temper of the House."

"We decided not to bring it up until the House cools off from the effects of the civilian defense and congressional pensions controversies," explained Chairman Mansfield, Democrat, Texas, of the rivers and harbors committee. "In their present frame of mind, the members are apt to vote against many worthy projects in the bill."

The omnibus measure would authorize the $285,000,000 St. Lawrence seaway and the $200,000,000 Florida ship canal among other projects. Mansfield indicated that action would be deferred until April.

In passing a $332,950,826 appropriation for the War Department's civil functions and sending it to the Senate, the House elimi-

Restaurant Cellar Damaged by Blaze

Fire of undetermined origin last night damaged the basement of Thompson's restaurant, 88 Whitehall street. Firemen were at first hampered by dense smoke, and fought the blaze through a cellar door on the front sidewalk. Ten customers and four employees were in the restaurant when the fire started. No one was injured, and the blaze was extinguished after a short time. No estimate of the damage was immediately available.

Mothers of Newly-Weds Graduated in Same Class

By SALLY FORTH.

JEANNE REDWINE surprised her family as well as her friends when she slipped away and married Walter Hunter Jr. in Quitman several weeks ago. In fact, her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Hill Redwine, who were in a motor accident recently, were recuperating down in Florida, and she didn't want to burden them with plans for a formal wedding. Then, too, there was the important question of a furlough for Walter, who is a member of the Army personnel department at Keesler Field at Biloxi, Miss. So when he came home on a three-day leave, he and Jeanne just decided to be married quietly.

Not that there was any objection from Jeanne's family, for her mother, Mrs. Redwine, was a classmate of Walter's mother, Mrs. W. R. Hunter Sr., at Agnes Scott, and they have been good friends ever since. In fact, it was Walter's cousin, the former Martha Marshall, of Americus, who introduced the pair. You see, Jeanne and Martha roomed together at Agnes Scott, and when Martha married Wingate Dykes back in August of 1930, she invited Jeanne to be in her wedding, and that was when she met Walter.

It so happens that Martha's mother, Mrs. T. O. Marshall, of Americus, also attended Agnes Scott and was in the same class with Mrs. Redwine and Mrs. Hunter. At that time she was Mattie Hunter, of Quitman. Mrs. Redwine was Lucy Reagan, of McDonough, and Mrs. Hunter was Emmie McCall, of Hawkinsville, and the trio were the best of friends. So, of course, Mrs. Redwine and Mrs. Marshall were very pleased when their daughters became such good friends and graduated together in the same caps and gowns that they themselves had worn.

Then when Mrs. Hunter's son, Walter, entered the picture and claimed Jeanne as his bride, relations between the trio were further cemented. So it's a very happy arrangement all round!

INSTEAD of inserting the customary dime in her wedding slipper for luck, Mary Louise Keck, whose marriage to Lieutenant Philip Fisher was announced recently, placed an English sixpence in her slipper!

It happened like this: Saturday morning the bride and a group of the groom's fellow flying students at Turner Field in Albany were sipping coffee in a local restaurant while planning the wedding, which, incidentally, was arranged in six hours! The suggestion was made that the bride should wear the traditional dime in her slipper for luck. The groom's mother, Mrs. Harold F. Fisher, then "wished out loud" for an English sixpence.

Suddenly she noticed a group of RAF pilots from Turner Field, who were dining at a nearby table. Summoning her courage, she approached them, explained that her son was being married in a few hours, and expressed a desire for a sixpence for the bride's slipper. The coin, one of Mary Louise's most valued keepsakes, was contributed by a young British cadet who arrived only a week ago from Belfast, Ireland, to receive flight training in Albany.

Laurence Olivier's Son Signs Up To Follow His Father as Actor

HOLLYWOOD, March 11.—(INS)—If Laurence Olivier would like to see how his son, Torquin, age nine, has grown in the years that he has been separated from him all he has to do is to take a look at Walter Wanger's "Eagle Squadron" when the movie is released in England. Torquin is in a sequence showing some British children at a picnic. Jill Eamond, the youngest's mother and a fine actress herself, said the only reason she permitted her son to go into the movies was to give his father a chance to see how the little boy has grown and how well America agrees with him.

Speaking of Universal pictures—they've had a lot of headaches casting their movies—and they're taking a lot of kidding. When Wanger signed the little Olivier boy, somebody cracked that "U" is waiting for available actors to be born for their pictures! Diana Barrymore, daughter of Jawn, is on the lot; Gregory La Cava cast his daughter, Janie, in "Lady in a Jam" and now Master Olivier has been recruited to the acting field.

George Montgomery, who was running cattle on his own ranch in Montana less than three years ago, has turned into a $5,000,000 baby for Twentieth Century-Fox. Yes, you read those figures right, for George is lined up for three of the most expensive pictures of 1942 for Twentieth.

The latest assignment is "Coney Island," which Montgomery will make with Alice Faye after the arrival of the Phil Harris baby. In addition to this "super" musical, George also has "Down to the Sea in Ships" and "Orchestra Wife." Currently he is completing "Ten Gentlemen From West Point," which is costing a pretty penny, too.

I am greatly intrigued with

Nancy Coleman's possibilities as an actress. I saw her first in "Kings Row" and she is extraordinary as Louise, Dr. Gordon's daughter. Now I have seen her in "Dangerously We Live" and the girl definitely has something. When I was out on the Warner lot I heard that Kaare Verne had been taken out of Errol Flynn's picture, "Desperate Journey," and that Nancy has been given the lead. Speaking of Flynn, as Lili Damita calls him, he now has his first citizenship papers and will become a full-fledged citizen in 30 days. There has been so much discussion about Errol of late that we should have the record straight.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: The Dennis Morgans will welcome their third child in the late summer; Carole Landis and Antole Litvak have had a number of dates—but very quietly; Nancy Kelly has planned to Des Moines to take Gene Tierney's place selling bonds while Gene is at her husband's bedside; Errol Flynn was well enough to take June Millard to dinner at the Players just a few nights after it was pried that he had to rest when he wasn't on the set; Armida, former protegee of Gus Edwards, is being tested for Ata, the native girl in "The Moon and Sixpence"; Mary Howard and Dean Cummings, Tulsa oil man, deep in conversation at the Beverly Wilshire; Betty Jane Rhodes steps into Ellen Drew's shoes in "Priorities of 1942" while Ellen is taking a suspension. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Home-Made Respirators Save Lives

By Dr. William Brady.

An epidemic of infantile paralysis brought 12 children to a hospital in northern Michigan where there was one respirator. All 12 children needed the help of a respirator. One of the trustees of the hospital turned his private machine shop into a respirator laboratory. Cabinet makers and machinists immediately set to work and within a few hours were able to complete workable respirators and deliver them to the hospital. They made the first respirator out of two gasoline drums welded together and fitted with a hand manipulated valve. For 36 hours volunteer women of the community worked the hand valves constantly until an automatic valve could be constructed. The home-made respirators were attached by hose to the one available respirator in the hospital as trailers.

The trustees who thus solved the problem of providing the 12 children with the great assistance of a respirator in an emergency where only one could have been given the boon otherwise. Mr. E. K. Reynolds, prepared a complete set of drawings with instructions for building such home-made respirators. Mr. Reynolds says such respirators can be made within a few hours in any school manual training shop, should an emergency occur. The home-made respirator is not intended to take the place of the standard respirators now available in many hospitals but certainly offer a means of taking care of such emergencies.

Mr. Reynolds has authorized publication of a pamphlet giving complete drawings and specifications for building the respirator.

A copy of the pamphlet may be obtained for 10 cents by writing to the Council of Physical Therapy, American Medical Association, Chicago, Ill. The pamphlet is entitled "Simple Workable Respirators."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Weak Eyes.

I am 26 years old, do office work, study a lot nights, have good deal of eyestrain although I wear glasses for reading. Will eye exercises or vitamin strengthen my eyes? (W. E. R.)

Answer—Best eye exercise is normal use of the eyes. More time you spend in open air in daytime the better for your eyesight. Vitamins will do no harm, may improve general functional health and indirectly vision. Vitamin C complex and vitamin A.

Have Baby at Home.

Puzzled over your advice to have baby at home. Isn't the antiseptic condition in a hospital much safer? (M. E. R.)

Answer—In my opinion a fairly clean home is always safer than any hospital for mother and child. I fear you have the movie conception of the antiseptic condition.

March 21st and April 19th (ARIES)—During the morning hours and until 4:36 p. m. is a favorable time for obtaining the confidence of people who are in power. After 4:36 p. m. the calmness of the morning seems displaced with a feeling of impatience. Good time to stick to routine.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS)—The period previous to 4:32 p. m. favors only matters of an ordinary nature. The remainder of the afternoon and evening favors making new plans, coming to decisions or making changes. The period past 8 p. m. favors sociability and making new contacts.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI)—The favorable influences noted for yesterday continue until 7:10 a. m. After that hour and continue throughout the day favors attention to ordinary details only. Use diplomacy rather than force, and remember that "haste makes waste."

months' course last summer are now counting this toward their student training.

Besides the locality you live in, the school you choose is a factor in the time requirement. Take the advice of all the outstanding women in this profession and be sure that you do select a good school. Most of the schools are operated by hospitals, but an increasing number are connected with colleges and universities.

While you are in training you get better care taken of you than you would be likely to take of yourself. Before you enter you must have a clear bill of health from your physician and periodic check-ups are standard. If you show signs of coming down with a cold—or signs of any illness—you are promptly sent to bed to get over it. The health record of the graduates is high. They are in better health, as a rule, on finishing their training than on beginning it.

From the material standpoint, nursing is well worth considering. As pointed out in "Better Nursing for America," a booklet prepared by the Public Affairs Committee in co-operation with the information bureau of the American Nurses' Association, during the first year out of college nursing is the best paid occupation for women, and eight years after college the largest salaries received by college women are in research and nursing.

It may be a little late for you to take up nursing as a career. But you can train as a nurse's aid. Your local chapter of the American Red Cross is ready to help you. The Red Cross textbook, on first aid has been adopted by practically all the defense units. For this you can be between 18 and 50 and must have graduated from high school. The training does not qualify you as a practical or registered nurse but it does enable you to serve your country.

The Steps In Making An Ottoman

A luxuriously padded ottoman to go with your favorite chair—or to serve as a comfortable stool! Best of all, you can make it yourself, easily and economically.

A wooden packing box is the base. For legs you need four strips of wood two inches thick attached to box.

For padding cut six pieces of cotton batting—one the size of the top, the next one-half inch smaller all around, and so on. Place these on box, starting with smallest piece.

Now cut a piece of batting the width of the box and long enough to reach three inches down the sides. Cut a piece to cross this one.

Cover padding with a piece of muslin, tacking it firmly all around. Cover this in turn with pretty fabric, tack on a pleated dounce and finish edges with a strip of quilting.

Girl Has Slim Chance for Happiness With Man Twenty Years Older

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie:

I am 15 years old. When I was 14 I married a man 42 years old. We lived together off and on for a year, then he quit me because I said he did not like the way I dressed and that I was a divorcee. He wants me to wear stockings, and I do not like to, because I think I am too young to dress like some old woman everytime I go anywhere. He has come back and said that he would support me until I could get a job and go to work. I am afraid to try to find a job for I do not like to lie about my age. I am going to school now, learning to type and sew and I will start in cooking classes soon. I have waitress' training but no experience. There is a boy I go with who seems to be crazy about me, and I think a great deal of him. I have had a few dates with him since I came back home. Do you think that I should find a job and get a divorce and go with whom I please, or stay married and never have any fun unless I slip out?

M. A. D.

You have plenty of time ahead of you to make something out of your life and I advise you to continue your studies by all means. Get a job as soon as possible. Every girl should be prepared to work if necessary despite her position in life. Do not lie about your age, but try to finish your schooling so that you will be prepared when a job presents itself. I feel sure that your marriage was a mistake and it should have been annulled at once. Since it was not, I feel justified in telling you that I think a divorce is a wise thing. There is a very slim chance of your having any happiness with this man who is old enough to be your father. As a rule I do not advise divorce, as I think everything should be done to keep a marriage from going on the rocks. In your case and at your age I think a divorce is the best solution. Since you are back home and want to go with some of the boys I think it will be all right. But keep up your studies.

JEALOUSY MAY BE BASIS OF CRITICISM

Dear Dixie:

I am 17 and have finished high school. I am in love with a boy who is 21. He has told me he loved me. The girls in my home town seem to be jealous of my going with him. As I really love him, I do not know what to do, for they tell me they would not go with him because he drinks. He seems to be very nice to everyone, especially to me. What must I do, quit him or keep on going with him?

WORRIED BROWN EYES.

If Gracie appears all right toward you, and does not have any of the faults which your girl friends infer, then just mark down their criticism of him as pure jealousy. If the boy is attractive and you two love each other, what difference should it make what the other girls say? Always remember that there are some girls who will try to criticize everybody you go with, in order to boost their own friends. Of course what these girls want you to do is to stop dating him, and should you stop just see how quickly they would go with him. By all means continue dating him.

Camp Fire To Hold Birthday Meetings

Throughout the week Camp Fire Girls will hold meetings in preparation for the celebration of their 30th birthday, which will be on March 17. On this date in 1912 the national organization received its charter, which established it as the first youth organization to receive this national status.

Monday Girls' Cabinet met at Davison's and learned songs to be used at the Grand Council Fire to be held on March 22. Margaret Yancey, chairman, presided, and made announcements of Birthday Week, March 15-22. All Camp Fire Girls and Bluebird groups will attend church together in their respective neighborhoods next Sunday.

Tuesday and Thursday mornings at 10:30 o'clock an intermediate training course is being held at the Wincoff hotel. This is planned to clarify Camp Fire's place in the defense program and to suggest further possibilities of service. In addition to dense work a general program of fun and advancement in rank will be stressed, taking into consideration the need of girls for a normal good time during this period of national emergency.

Saturday a committee of awards will be held at Camp Fire headquarters at 10:15 o'clock. The purpose of the meeting is the examination of girls for rank requirements.

Headlines Are Heartlines!

By KATHRYN BARNWELL.

Spring's gayest emblems are hats—gay, appealing little adornments bespeaking gallant gestures, studied nonchalance—bravery.

What mood will you adopt this Spring? Will you be provocative in a robin-red sailor with miles of veiling swirled in artful profusion? Will you be demure in a toque of gentian blue with a nose-gay for a crown, while your eyes dance with the knowledge that he's calling at 8:30 o'clock? Or will you be a danger signal in a wide-brimmed black straw accented by a handful of white lilacs?

Regardless of your mood, this Spring will find you prettier. Your husband will fall in love with you all over again because your violet calot gives your eyes that special blue sparkle they held when you first met. Spring nights will find your best beau calling for you early because you are the sum of his desires in a flower hat of white valley lilies, your slender throat encircled by a wide be-ruffled collar of white organdy.

Gay quills of liberty red, magnolia green and acacia will spike your jaunty chapeau, and anchor the whisp of veiling that makes you irresistible.

Your Spring suit will blossom beneath a spun sugar-white pancake hat, its crown outlined by a meringue of fluted lace. Your printed jersey dress accented by a twist of navy lace straw set securely behind your pompadour and bedecked with forget-me-nots and rosebuds will bring about important moments in your life.

You'll not miss your goal this Spring if you are more beautiful. And you will be more beautiful if your "headlines" are accomplished by hats aimed at his heartline!

Public Hearing To Be Held on Poll Tax Bill

Pepper Measure Would Outlaw State Levies in U. S. Elections.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP)—The senate will open public hearings tomorrow on a proposal to outlaw state poll taxes as a prerequisite for voting in federal elections and primaries—a subject many congressmen acknowledge is charged with political dynamite. The question, dormant in congressional committees for several years, will be revived when the senate's judiciary subcommittee begins taking testimony on a bill by Senator Pepper, Democrat, Florida, to outlaw the tax now effective in eight southern states. The measure would prohibit the requirement of poll taxes as voting qualifications in primary and general elections for President, vice president and members of congress. Pepper said he would ask the committee to amend the measure to outlaw also poll tax assessments against soldiers, sailors or others in the armed services.

Pepper said he would rely on the contention that the right to vote for President, vice president and members of congress was a federal franchise.

Early supporting witnesses will include Herbert Agar, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal; Silliman Evans, publisher of the Chicago Sun and the Nashville Tennessean; Dr. Frank Graham, president of the University of North Carolina, and Jennings Perry, associate editor of the Nashville Tennessean.

President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America (CIO); William E. Green, president of the AFL, will testify Friday, and CIO President Philip Murray will appear at a later hearing.

The poll-tax states are Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

Esposito Brothers Will Die Tonight

OSHING, N. Y., March 11.—(AP)—The brothers Esposito, William and Anthony, "the mad dog killers" of a spectacular Fifth avenue holdup and gun battle, will go to their deaths tomorrow night in the Sing Sing electric chair.

William, 29, and Anthony, 37, will have to be carried or wheeled to the death chamber, helpless hulks as compared with the swaggering, domineering gunmen who terrorized noonday shoppers on January 14, 1941, in their flight through a department store after shooting down a protesting hold-up victim. A policeman who gave chase was slain and a cab driver who was to the aid of the officer was wounded seriously.

2 Are Convicted Of White Slavery

A young Jacksonville couple, who gave their names as Jack and Jodey Brent, were convicted in federal district court yesterday of a white slave charge in bringing 18-year-old telephone operator, Margaret Andrea, here from Florida shortly before last Christmas. The girl described her Atlanta experiences to the jury, saying she was beaten.

Two other charges face Brent, one for alleged interstate transportation of a stolen automobile. Judge E. Marvin Underwood reserved sentence.

Restaurant Men Warned On Day Air Raids Here

Daylight air raids on Atlanta would present a great hazard because of concentration of people downtown, J. S. Roberts, information and publicity chairman for the county defense corps, told members of the Atlanta Association of Better Restaurants last night.

Roberts urged operators to "have a plan for taking care of customers and employees during the day" and outlined points which should be included in such a plan. The meeting was held at the Duchess coffee shop.

Views on Madagascar Situation Conflict

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP)—Told today of speculation that the Vichy government conceivably might agree to accept Japanese aid in Madagascar, Acting Secretary of State Welles said today that assurances recently received from Vichy were diametrically opposed to any such arrangement. These assurances, he asserted in reply to a question, were received about the same time as Vichy's assurances that the French fleet would not be turned over to the Axis.

1,000 Pupils Labor Budget Take Part in Withdrawn by Music Festival Commissioner

More than 1,000 elementary school musicians turned out yesterday at Joe Brown Junior High school for the first day of the fifth district musical festival, and more than 2,000 high school boys and girls are scheduled to participate in the events today and tomorrow, J. S. Rutan, general district festival chairman, announced.

Choruses from E. L. Connally, Capitol View, Campbell, Ponce de Leon Grammar, Fifth Avenue, Cascade, Tucker, Winona Park, Druid Hills, Oakhurst, Clairmont, Glenwood, Marietta, Liberty, Guinn, Lena H. Cox, Bolton, Garden Hills, James L. Mayson, Ben Hill, R. L. Hope, Humphries, E. P. Howell, Longino, Perkerson, Central Park and E. Rivers performed in the elementary division yesterday, and the instrumental groups from West End elementary schools, Clairmont, Smilie, Spring Street, Howell, Oakhurst, E. Rivers, Longino, Garden Hills, Peoples Street, East Lake and Chamblee schools played.

Today choruses and instrumental groups from high schools will participate, and tomorrow bands, orchestras and twirlers will perform. Students compete for ratings against a recognized standard of excellence, and four outstanding musicians are here for the judging. They are Du Pre Rham, of Furman University; John Vincent and Arthur W. Henderson, both of Western Kentucky State Teachers' College, and Earl Slocum, of the University of North Carolina. The judges were honored at a dinner at Joe Brown Junior High last night, given by music educators of the district.

Decatur Plays Cochran Five In State Meet

Athens-Ocilla, Hogansville-Canton Tilts Also Set Today.

MACON, Ga., March 12.—(P)—Low, close scores advanced Hogansville and Cochran to the second round of the Georgia state high school basketball tournament here tonight.

Entered in the Class "B" tournament's only matches of the opening round, Hogansville had to go three overtime periods before turning back Austell, 19-15, while Cochran's margin over Perry was 18 to 15.

In Class "C," there likewise were only two matches, Fairmont outscoring Decatur, 30 to 27, and Barney falling before Preston, 24 to 30. The second round (quarter-finals) will pit Hogansville against Canton, Ocilla against Athens, Moultrie against Brooklet and Cochran against Decatur in tomorrow's play. The lineup in the Class "C" division will be Fairmont vs. Social Circle, Workmore vs. Mansfield, Gordon vs. Central-Hatchee, Preston vs. Stillson.

In the Class "B" division, Canton stood out as a strong threat against Athens, defending champions. In the North Georgia interscholastic conference tournament, Canton defeated Decatur in the finals, Decatur having climbed up over Athens in the semi-finals. The battle between the teams, if both survive, will come in the semi-finals, and the survivor will probably have to face the Moultrie Packers, favored over the lower-bracket teams—and ranked high to take the title.

Tiger Club Loses Mullin to Army

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 11.—(P)—Pat Mullin, one of last year's most promising recruit outfielders with the Detroit Tigers, announced today he has enlisted in the Army and will undergo final physical examination tomorrow in Pittsburgh.

Mullin said a shoulder injury suffered last July 2 in a collision with Pitcher Bill Dietrich, of the Chicago White Sox, had handicapped him late in the season. He had not reached a salary agreement with the club due to a $150 a month salary cut, Mullin added.

Each Would Put Up $300 For 'Pennant Insurance'

Buchanan Holdout Cheered by News, But Couldn't Accept; Whit Offered $13,500 After Winning 22 Games Last Season.

By AL SHARP.

Whitlow Wyatt, Brooklyn's holdout pitcher, sat tight on the other side of the eight ball from Larry MacPhail yesterday, happy that his teammates were discussing plans to chip in and make up a salary large enough to bring him into camp.

When the National League champions arrived at Daytona Beach, Fla., yesterday, some of the boys were talking about chipping in $300 each to make up the difference between the $13,500 MacPhail offered the Buchanan (Ga.) farmer and what he wants.

One remarked while discussing the plan to ante up $300: "That would be cheap enough pennant insurance."

WHIT WYATT
Teammates Are Generous

"That sure makes me feel good," the genial Mr. Wyatt said as he rested after doing a few chores around the farm. "Of course, I couldn't accept anything from them, but I sure appreciate it."

NO BONUS NOW.

The holdout situation between Wyatt and MacPhail took the unheard-of turn after several weeks' correspondence. MacPhail first offered Wyatt a contract for $13,500 with two bonus clauses on attendance. Wyatt did not return that one in a hurry and the next thing he knew MacPhail had sent a contract for $13,500 with no bonus clauses. That's the one he has now.

"It makes me feel bad about not being down there with the boys getting in tiptop shape," Wyatt said. "They like me and I like them. We really pulled together last year. You have to when you have a good ball club."

Wyatt can't understand why he should not get more than a small raise after what he did for the Dodgers last year. The big right-hander won 22 and lost 10, and he took the only victory in the World Series for the Brooklynians.

"I had a bad month last year. I didn't win a single game from July 15 to August 15. I know I won't run into another streak like that. I should pitch better ball this year."

GOOD AS NEWS.

The $37,500 salary of Bob Feller last season was mentioned during our conversation. "Don't get me wrong," Whit was quick to say. "I'm not putting myself in his class. But take Buck Newsom. He is supposed to have got that last season. I know I'm as good or better. At least, I did more for my club."

In explaining his attitude, Wyatt pointed out that he would try to pay a farmhand what he was worth. "If he did fine work," Wyatt said, "I would try to pay him more. But MacPhail apparently is going on the theory that no matter what you do, you just deserve a small raise every year."

"I may be wrong, but I think I deserve more on my record." The negotiations have reached the point where "making a deal" has been mentioned.

However, Wyatt is sitting tight down on the farm.

He can wait.

SEBRING, Fla., March 11.—(P) Favorites advanced to the quarter-finals today in the annual midwinter tourney for amateur senior golfers at the Kenilworth Lodge links.

Co-medalist M. A. Copeland, Cleveland, Ohio, defeated W. J. Bengner, New York city, 5 and 4. Ross Ackley, Chicago, who shared medalist honors, did not enter match competition.

Keiser, Harper Win Miami 4-Ball Meet

Giant-Killing Duo First 'Outsiders' Ever To Capture Event.

By JOHN WILDS.

MIAMI, Fla., March 11.—(P)—Herman Keiser and Chandler Harper, a pair of workaday golfers who got to the finals over the toughest route, won the Miami Biltmore's International four-ball tournament today with a relentless display of birdies and pars.

Dove-tailing their efforts admirably, they bowled over Jack Groat and Ben Loving, 4 and 3, to win $1,000 apiece.

The winners built up a four-hole edge with a brilliant 64 on the morning 18 and a birdie on the 19th, then matched the best their opponents could do for 14 straight holes.

The first "outsiders" ever to capture the four-ball, Harper and Keiser were 13 under par for the distance.

Groat, who won his team's semifinals match with an eagle on the 36th, had birdies today on the first, 23d and 28th holes. Loving's putts wouldn't drop most of the day, but he helped with under-par putts on the 18th, 22d, 27th and 33d.

The poker-faced victors were the tournament's giant killers. On their way to the payoff round they mowed down Craig Wood and Billy Burke, Henry Picard and Byron Nelson and Ben Hogan and Gene Sarazen, the last 142 winners.

Loving and Groat knocked off Lawson Little and Jimmy Demaret, Ky Laffoon and Johnny Revolta and Jimmy Hines and Willie Goggin.

IN POLO FINALS

WEST POINT, March 11.—(P)—Yale earned the right to meet Princeton in the finals of the Intercollegiate Indoor Polo championship today with a 7-6 victory over Army. The finals will be played Saturday.

ON THE LINE

With Bob Considine

NEW YORK, March 11.—(INS)—What happens if Johnny Mize can't throw? Will Horace Stoneham, who bought him from Branch Rickey and Sam Breadon for something in the neighborhood of $65,000 be able to get his money back? How about Mize himself? How about the morale of the Giants, if anyone cares? Is it going to suffer if the high-priced, high-salaried Mize sits on the bench while players who don't make half his dough do all the work?

All these things combine into Mel Ott's first managerial headache.

There isn't too much precedent to fall back on, in case Mize is a bust and Stoneham appeals to Judge Landis for the return of his money. In fact the only player who comes to mind as one who was returned stamped, "falsely represented," was Al Schacht. If memory serves, Jersey City sold him to Clark Griffith not long after he had an appendicitis operation—without telling Griff about the operation, and Schacht was sent back to the minors for a time longer.

Connie Mack sold Lefty Grove to Tom Yawkey for $100,000 when Grove had a sore arm. The great southpaw had come down with arm trouble a month or so short of the 1933 season, but not much was said about it, or known about it, until he couldn't win for Yawkey the next season. Yawkey spent a tidy sum probing Grove for the root of the trouble and Grove, with his mountaineer style of treatment, would go off by himself and throw ball after ball at a bullseye he had rigged up in the corner of Fenway park. Finally he came around and, by and large, Yawkey got his money's worth—but during the first year of Grove's tour of duty with the Red Sox, old Connie had to deny stoutly that he had pulled a thick blanket of wool over young Yawkey's eyes.

Louise Suggs And Dot Kirby Win With Ease

Suggs Fires 37 and Kirby Gets 39 for Long Leads.

By DOROTHY KIRBY.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 11.—As we usually say after the first round of match play, the favorites all won today. Most of them had little trouble.

However, the prospects for tomorrow indicate some of these second-round matches will be battles. For instance, Louise Suggs is up against Sally Sessions, who is quite a fighter, so they should have a good time of it.

Georgia Tainter runs into Marjorie Row, who is also a tough competitor. Louise Suggs shot a 37 on the front nine this morning, which is very good on that side. She beat Mrs. F. W. Zimmerman, 7-6. Mary Jane Garman also won her match and had a 38. Tainter wasn't on her game this morning and required 42 strokes on the front nine but beat Mrs. Laura Kirkpatrick, of Atlanta, 6-5.

I was out in 39, taking a very large 7 on the sixth hole. I still can't get used to the idea of having to hit the ball so hard on the slow greens. Even a short putt requires a lot of extra energy to get the ball to the cup. I met Mrs. T. E. Nolan tomorrow. She is quite a good golfer and won her match by 4 and 3 this morning.

After the matches today we went over and watched the Atlanta ball club go through their spring practice. It was certainly good to see a ball game again after so long a time. Paul Richards, manager of the Crackers, is quite a golfer also and if I get put out, we are to have a game.

We all have something to look forward to tonight for Mr. and Mrs. William Kenan are giving their annual party for the golfers. I have never been here before to attend it but from what I hear it is certainly nice. Pictures of a number of the older golfers who were very good are to be shown. Maybe I can pick up some pointers as to how this game should be played.

Other first-round results follow: Sally Sessions, Muskegon, Mich., defeated Mrs. E. R. Reinsh, Detroit, Mich., 6 and 5. Marjorie Row, Detroit Mich., defeated Mrs. Claude Swinney, Atlanta, 8 and 6. Mrs. Thomas E. Nolan, Newcastle, Pa., defeated Mrs. V. C. Smith, Charleston, W. Va., 5 and 3. Ann Picard, Daytona Beach, defeated Mrs. Maurice Glick, Pikeville, Md., 4 and 3. Mary Jayne Gorman, Sarasota, defeated Mrs. J. J. Lawlor, Scarsdale, N. Y., 9 and 8.

Pairings for the second round of match play follow:

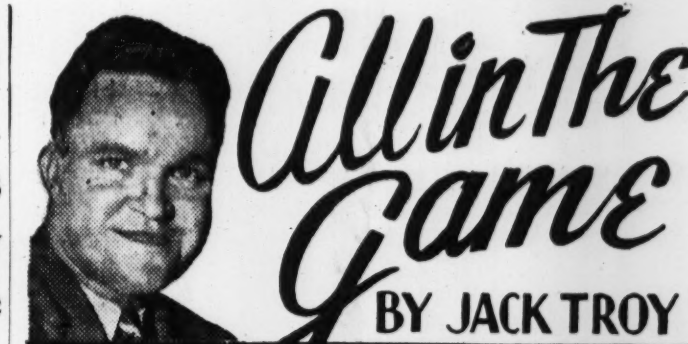

Miss Suggs vs. Miss Sessions; Miss Row vs. Miss Tainter; Miss Kirby vs. Mrs. Nolan; Miss Pink vs. Miss Gorman.

Mike Warr Wins

Mat Crown Again

MACON, Ga., March 11.—Clifford Michael (Mike) Warr, Mercer University sophomore from Atlanta, this week entered his seventh year as Y. M. C. A. welterweight wrestling champion of Georgia. He successfully defended his title in the annual state meet at Atlanta Saturday.

The Southern Amateur Athletic Union events, at New Orleans soon, may find Warr entered, in an effort to regain the Dixie diadem he held during 1938-40. Twice he won the Y. M. C. A. competition, and in 1940 he garnered S. A. A. U. laurels.

BY JACK TROY

No Texas Tune ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 11.—Including Baylor's Wilson, All-Southwest Conference basketball center, and numerous other athletes, the Texas 36th moved in to spend a week-end of relaxation amid the peaceful surroundings of the Ancient City.

Soon, however, the peace and quiet was replaced by the wail of the juke box trumpet and saxophone. Most of the places did 24-hour business to keep the boys entertained.

But never once were the boys from the Texas 36th division able to play that popular piece, "Deep in the Heart of Texas."

It may be that a record was set in these United States. Only those having a radio had a chance to hear it. And thereby hangs a tale.

Word had preceded the Texas division, and since there was a New York division in town at the same time, and there being no chance to locate the "Sidewalks of New York" for the juke boxes, operators simply turned over "Deep in the Heart of Texas."

A few weeks ago a Texas division encountered another division in a place of amusement. It is declared that they wore out one record of the favorite Texas tune and when a member of the other division failed to rise and salute on each playing, a Texan would stretch him out with a punch.

Smart local operators averted such intramural goings-on by making the tune inaccessible. And it probably was just as well. Those lean Texans were hungering for action.

Baseball Fan Mr. K. Rogers and I rode the Kansas City Special to the training camp, which is almost a sleeper jump from the station, located, as it is, virtually five miles from the pulsebeat of the city.

Anyway, we found out there isn't much interest in baseball. Not much. In fact, we almost had to defend ourselves when H. L. (Fatty) Pharr, chief claim clerk for the Southern railroad, warmed up to his favorite sports subject, the Crackers. At one point it began to appear we might have to call on trainman Reuben Young, a fine scout, for help.

Fatty Pharr has never seen the Crackers win a game. Never. And he is a fan who goes whenever the opportunity affords itself. It seems incredible that he should have been attending games off and on since 1925 and seen only a string of setbacks. But he says it is true—and Mr. Rogers and I believe him.

When Atlanta won the first pennant in 10 years under Bert Niehoff, Pharr attended that '25 opener and Atlanta lost. He was present at the seventh game of the Shaughnessy play-off last year, and even with Atlanta out in front in the ninth, Pharr confided to a friend—

"If I were a betting man, I'd get rich now. Those Crackers can't win this game."

Fans will recall that Johnny Gerlach, normally a good defensive ball player, booted in two runs in the ninth as Nashville copped the play-off.

Fatty Pharr might even change his present opinion of Paul Richards if he can see the Crackers win a game in the 1942 season.

A Sure Sign A submarine sailor headed for a secret base was on our train and he had come across one of the better stories of the day. It happened in Birmingham, as anything can.

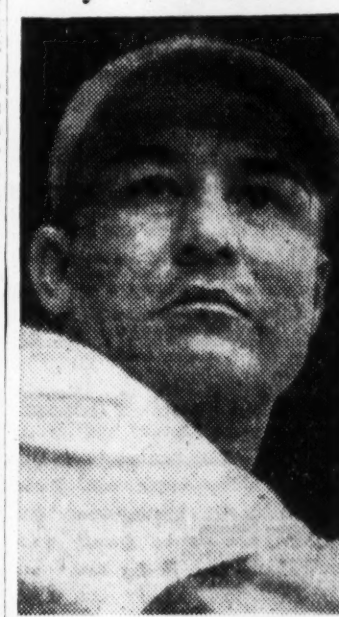

This father, upon hearing that his son-in-law had enlisted in the service, breathed a sigh of relief.

"The war will be over soon," he told a friend.

"How's that?" the friend asked.

"Well, Joe's in the Army now—and that lazy so-and-so's never held any job more than six months!"

York Told To Sign or Leave, Says That He Will Come Home

RUDY YORK
'SIGN OR LEAVE'

An empty house is more expensive than a Want Ad in The Constitution that will rent it.

LAKELAND, Fla., March 11.—(P)—General Manager Jack Zeller, of the Detroit Tigers, today issued a 24-hour ultimatum to Rudy York to end his holdout or leave the training camp here. York said he would go to his home at Alco, Ga.

Zeller said he had asked York, Detroit's top 1941 producer of runs, to sign the original contract offered him. The Tigers drastically cut virtually all salaries this year and York's was one of the hardest hit.

York is the only holdout working out here now. The others are Bobo Newsom, Johnny Gorsica, Luther Thomas and Billy Sullivan.

Mrs. Dowman Low In Met Golf Play

Mrs. Charles Dowman was low scorer in the Metropolitan women golfers' tourney at Candler Park yesterday. She shot a 91 after battling a strong wind.

Low net prize winners were Mrs. W. A. Dodge Jr., with 66; Mrs. W. G. Hastings, 67, and Mrs. W. M. Robertson, 71. Prizes were defense stamps and golf balls.

Charlie Glock Key Man of Cracker Plans

Hope Begins 21st Year as Fulton Coach

Lucien (Bird) Hope began his 21st year of coaching Fulton High baseball team yesterday when he took a squad of around 20 diamond hopefuls to Brisbane Park for their initial workout of the 1942 year.

Hope has several veterans around whom he hopes to build a winning combination for the N. G. I. C. League campaign. Billy Daniels, catcher; Roy Stevens, first baseman; James Adams, shortstop, and Wilson Brooks, outfielder, are among his more accomplished performers.

EXPLANATION.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 11.—(P)—A five-over-par 78 won medal honors in the San Francisco Women's Open golf tournament but the shooter, Mrs. Mildred Babe Didrikson Zaharias—had an explanation for the extra strokes. "I haven't been playing much golf lately because I'm in four bowling leagues down south," she said.

MILES HITTING 407.

ANAHEIM, Cal., March 11.—Outfielder Dee Miles, ex-Southern Association player, is batting at a .407 clip for the Philadelphia Athletics after eight exhibition games.

THE RIGHT-HANDERS—Here are the right-handed veterans of the Cracker pitching staff this season. They are expected to form the nucleus of the hurling corps for

Third Sacker Is One of Best Clutch Hitters

Gush, McCormick, Rosenstein Named To Face Barons Sunday.

By JACK TROY.
ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 11.—The boy Birmingham and Knoxville couldn't use is pretty much a key man in Atlanta Cracker plans.

Charlie Glock, second in the league in runs batted in and a most dependable third baseman, may jump from a Knoxville bench sifter to a major league job. He's only 25 years old and the kind of hot corner guardian major leagues demand.

Two years ago he wasn't good enough for Birmingham and all righty field at Ponce de Leon made for him was an end seat on the bench.

Last year was the best he has enjoyed in a six-year professional career. He batted .311, drove in 120 runs and scored 82 for the Crackers. He hit 23 doubles and 16 home runs. Clutch Hitter Charlie, they call him.

Glock is the most dependable run producer on the squad, with Lester Burge and Willard Marshall gone, and he'll probably be ably supported by Earle Browne, the veteran first baseman-outfielder.

Browne also swings from the left side of the plate and will find right field at Ponce de Leon made to order as he has in the past as a visitor with Little Rock, New Orleans and Chattanooga.

For the first game of the exhibition season, scheduled for Birmingham Sunday at Palatka, Skipper Paul Richards has nominated three rookies, Lou Bush, Wallace McCormack and Milton Rosenstein, who's marking time until called by the Army. Bush, a right-hander who played last year in a fast New York semi-league, has impressed camp followers with his speed and control. McCormack, as a member of the St. Augustine Saints, had the exceptionally low earned-run average of 1.36 per nine innings.

There was an exhibition game today between the Bluebirds and the Manchester All-Stars, an Army outfit. It was called at the end of the ninth with the score tied 1-1.

Red Mathis, rookie outfielder from Kingston, Ga., was the offensive star for the Bluebirds. He hit a triple and scored the only run when Widmayer followed with a single. In the ninth Mathis singled with Tommie O'Brien on second and two men out, but O'Brien was thrown out at the plate.

Edgar Chitwood, Thomas Smith and Stanley Tubb each pitched three innings.

State Basketball

MORGANTON, Ga., March 11.—In the semifinals of the ninth district girls' basketball tournament, northern division, played here last night Morganton upset performance calculations by defeating the highly rated Jasper sextette, 30-17. Morganton held the Jasper ladies to a 14-3 score at half-time. However in the last half Dorsey, long shot of the Jasper attack, cracked down for 11 pointers. D. Nichols, of Morganton, was outstanding with 16 points.

In the second game of the night Canton defeated Ellijay, 44-17. Vaughn, star Canton forward, led the Greenies' attack with 22 points. Hise scored 11 for Ellijay.

Ex-Duke Athlete Gets Navy Post

BREVARD, N. C., March 11.—Jack Alexander, Duke football player from 1933-35, was notified by the Navy today of his appointment as chief specialist in its physical fitness program. He was instructed to report for duty March 16 at Raleigh.

Alexander, director of athletics at Ecuasia Paper Corporation here, has played professional baseball and coached football at V. M. I. and Brevard College. His appointment was on recommendation of Lieutenant Commander Gene Tunney.

Bivins Outslugs Champ Lesnevich

CLEVELAND, March 11.—(P)—Jimmy Bivins gave Gus Lesnevich a slugging lesson tonight to win a decisive 10-round verdict over the light-heavyweight champion in a non-title bout. The winner weighed 176 1-4 and Lesnevich 178.

The Cleveland Negro, who drank a quart of water in order to scale over the 175-pound limit, turned loose his artillery to knock the champion down briefly in the second round.

Bivins also bloodied Lesnevich's nose, and opened a wide cut under the titleholder's right eye in the fourth as he captured six rounds, with one even and the other three going to Gus.

Allen Ousted for Breaking Training

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 11.—(P)—Larry MacPhail, Brooklyn Dodgers' president, today ordered Johnny Allen, veteran right-handed pitcher out of uniform for breaking the club's training rules during the recent pre-season sessions in Havana.

It was indicated Allen, picked up by the Dodgers after being cast off by the Cleveland Indians, faces a fine and suspension. MacPhail said he took the action after receiving a report of investigators he assigned to Allen in Havana.

Mauldin Will Play On Memphis Team

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 11.—(P)—Instead of reporting for duty on the Atlanta police force as previously planned, Marshall Mauldin, veteran Southern Association outfielder, has changed his mind and will report to the Memphis camp at Bartow, Fla., today or tomorrow.

Announcement of Mauldin's change of heart concerning retirement was made by Vice President Frank Longinotti of the Chicks, who also disclosed the outright sale of three pitchers to Meridian in the Southeastern League.

The pitchers are J. R. Ferguson and Stanley Todd, both of whom played with Greenville in the Cotton States League last season, and Nat Love, who was with Memphis. All are right-handers.

PAPA BIMELECH.

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 11.—(P)—Bimelech, winner of much racing fame for Colonel E. R. Bradley in 1939 and 1940, has become a "pappy" for the first time. Baby's Breath foaled a bay colt by Bimelech yesterday at Idle Hour farm. Bim failed to recover adequately from a foot injury last year and was retired to stud.

DON'T BE FOOLED

ROCKING CHAIR CHURN

This invention might well have been called "the farmer's dream"—for it was designed to churn milk while the idle farmer rocked lazily in his chair. The inventor was sure this invention would make him famous. But he was fooled. He didn't get what he was looking for. To be sure you do, remember this:

With Those Who Know Their Bourbon Best It's

T.W. Samuels
GENUINE KENTUCKY STRAIGHT BOURBON WHISKEY

DON'T be fooled about whiskey's quality. What goes into the whiskey at the start is just as important now as it was a century back. We make our whiskey deep in the heart of Kentucky—in the genuine old-fashioned "slow" way we started over 100 years ago. We want our whiskey to get a good start—so age will really count. That's how we get such extra smoothness, extra richness. That's why T. W. Samuels—genuine Kentucky Straight Bourbon Whiskey every drop—sells best in the "bourbon country," where men know their bourbon best. Yes, T. W. Samuels costs more to make but not to drink. Try it yourself.

FLEMING SLUGS.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 11.—(P)—The St. Louis Cardinals scalped the Cleveland Indians, 9 to 4, in the Tribe's first home exhibition game of the Grapefruit League.

Twenty Indians and 14 Cardinals got in the game, but the only Redskin who made full use of his war club was Les Fleming, up from Nashville of the Southern Association. Fleming got a homer and a single in two chances.

Enos Slaughter and Martin Marion hit circuit clouts for the National Leaguers, who took advantage of 11 walks and three Cleveland errors.

Commissioner K. M. Landis attended the game.

SEWELL NAMES PITCHERS.

DELAND, Fla., March 11.—(P)—Manager Luke Sewell, of the St. Louis Browns announced today he would use three rookie hurlers, Clarence Iott, Loy Hanning and Ewald Pyle, in the opening exhibition game of the season with Kansas City Saturday. The remainder of the lineup will be composed largely of veteran performers.

CHANDLER STARS.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 11.—(P)—The New York Yankees blanked Washington, 4-0, in an exhibition baseball game here today as Spurgeon Chandler, Marvin Bruehr and Alley Donald limited the Senators to two hits, both slow rollers that went for infield singles.

The Senators didn't advance a man past first base. After Chandler and Bruehr had been nicked by Bob Estellella and Jimmy Pofahl, Donald hurled no-hit ball the last three innings, retiring nine men in order.

The Yanks made the most of their seven safeties and scored their runs one at a time. An single and a double by Buddy Rosar figured in two of the tallies.

Stocks Leaders Suffer Severe Drops

NEW YORK, March 11.—(AP)—The stock market today continued its painful adjustment to the war economy and in the process a large number of leading shares pushed down to the lowest prices recorded in the last two or three years.

Deepest losses, running from 1 to around 4 points, hit the chemical, tobacco, and electric equipment groups.

Virtually all other departments were carried down as selling activities broadened a bit in the final hour and closing prices were at the bottom in most cases.

Tax fears, apparently reaching a more acute stage in speculative and investment considerations, were given the principal blame for the market's fall.

Aluminum of America, American Gas & Electric, Creole Petroleum and Humble Oil were here was about 100,000 shares compared with 70,000 the previous day.

The probable effects of new federal taxes on various industries assumed a pronounced role in today's market and as both investors and speculators sought freely securities adjudged in a favorable position and let go those thought to be adversely affected.

Metal Dealers Meet, Move To Block Inflation

Program Worked Out To Prevent Prices From Rising.

One of the steps to carry out President Roosevelt's principle, announced Tuesday night, that the battle against inflation is as important as fighting the war, was taken here yesterday in a conference called by Regional Administrator Oscar R. Strauss Jr., of the federal Office of Price Administration.

Washington officials and Dean R. P. Brooks, of the University of Georgia school of business administration, serving as regional OPA price executive, met with southeastern dealers in nonferrous metals and, in executive session, worked out details of the anti-inflation program affecting their industry.

Similar conferences will be held with all other important industries.

From the national office in Washington, D. C., were George R. Taylor, associate price executive, and two members of his staff, Lloyd Seville, heading the foundry unit, and Sidney Kaner, his legal aide.

"Our failure to control runaway prices in the last war," declared Dean Brooks in a brief open session, "led in the years afterward to an index of 240 instead of the normal 100 and to all the succeeding horrors of the depression in

'Bugs' Baer Says:

I saw my first big flight of warplanes this week and it makes a thrill go up your neck like a window shade.

The line I remember best of all the London stories was written by a Chicago man when the English ack-acks opened up, "It makes you feel better when your side is making as much noise as the other side."

That psychology of combat is right. But not quite so accurate as the jeep on the range who scored himself perfect because every time he pulled the trigger the gun went off.

That's why the hum of motors in the air is melody to your ears when your side is writing the music.

which millions of people were ruined — farmers, industrialists, householders alike.

"The OPA setup is the front line in our war to prevent anything like that tragedy happening this time."

Taylor told his hearers: "You represent an industry of strategic importance in our war program. I need not tell you that the munitions of war simply cannot be made without your castings. In many respects the successful prosecution of the war is just as dependent upon you as it is on the military forces in the field.

"The Office of Price Administration is charged with the responsibility of stabilizing the price level and of avoiding those vicious inflationary spirals which in the past have contributed so greatly to the excessive costs of war and its disastrous aftermaths.

Must Curb Prices.

"On the basis of 1914 prices, the last war cost the government and people of the United States about three times what it would have cost had prices been stabilized at the 1914 level.

"The importance of price stabilization in this war is far greater, for it is obvious that the amount of material required is many times greater. If our office is not successful, I am indeed fearful of the effects the burden of debt and taxes will have on our economic system and our way of life.

"It is most difficult for many individuals to realize that we can't let their particular prices go up and still avoid inflation. Inflation cannot be avoided by piecemeal restrictions, by fixing some prices and allowing others to rise."

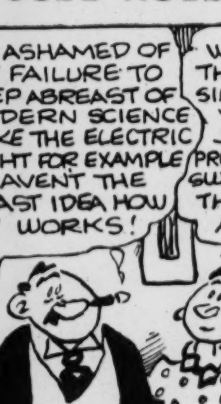

The industry recently was requested by Leon Henderson, OPA administrator, to adhere generally to the price levels of October 1-15, last year.

Vote Leaguers Answer Mayor In Salary Row

Public Administration Survey Is Adequate, Says President.

The Public Administration Service salary survey schedule for municipal employees is adequate and no further salary study is necessary to determine inequalities in compensation of city workers, Mrs. J. J. Selva, president of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, yesterday informed Mayor LeCraw. Mrs. Selva pointed out that the survey was a result of a comparable wage scale in private employments, in public employments and the ability of the city to pay. She added, however, if LeCraw feels that a further survey is necessary, the organization stands ready to serve.

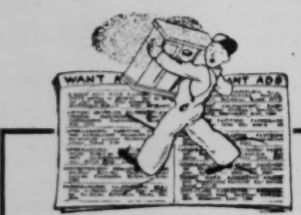

The controversy over salaries was precipitated when council voted a blanket 10 per cent raise for municipal workers for the first six months of this year at a cost of about $187,000. The league contended a blanket raise did not rectify inequalities and the mayor asked the league to name those who paid too much and those paid too little. Mrs. Selva's letter yesterday to LeCraw was an answer to the mayor's request to name the inequalities.

The Army and Navy in Georgia

Selective Service headquarters announced yesterday that men who have been deferred by reason of dependency only but wish to volunteer for training as officers may apply to local induction boards.

Those volunteers will be given four months' training to determine if they are potential prospects for commissions as second lieutenants. Those not recommended for an officer candidate school at the end of that time may ask for transfer to the enlisted reserve. In case of such transfer, the volunteer would return to civilian life and not be subject to call for active service unless registrants having similar dependency are called.

Those who fail to complete the officer candidate course or who are not recommended for commission likewise may request transfer to the enlisted reserve, or elect to be reassigned as an enlisted man on active duty.

49,700 Nazis Group of 150 Slain in Month, To Be Inducted As Air Cadets

161 Inhabited Points Recaptured in Recent Struggle.

By EDDY GILMORE.

MOSCOW, Thursday, March 12.—(AP)—A special Soviet communique today announced 49,700 Germans had been killed on the Kalinin front northwest of Moscow between February 5 and March 8.

In the month-long fighting the Russians recaptured 161 inhabited points, the Soviet bulletin stated. Kalinin itself is 95 miles northwest of Moscow. In the general sector beyond Kalinin the Germans established strong positions which they are reported to have been ordered by Hitler to hold at all costs. Despite this, Russian troops have broken through this so-called "Strauss line."

In the fighting reported today the Russians brought down or destroyed on the ground 277 German planes, and captured 78 tanks and 172 guns.

Key Junction Seized.

Red Army troops were reported to have captured a key junction in the Lake Ilmen area where Soviet fighter pilots have steadily destroyed big Nazi transport planes trying to ferry reinforcements to the trapped 16th German Army under General Von Busch.

Dispatches from the Staraya Russa sector said the Germans were using a transport route from Koenigsberg in eastern Germany via Riga, Latvia, in an effort to shuttle plane-loads of 30 to 35 men to the encircled garrison.

Forests and airbases along the coast leg of this service were littered with the burned-out wrecks of these big planes, the Russians said.

Tass also reported that the number of suicides of privates and officers alike in the besieged army was increasing, and that General Von Busch had issued orders that the bodies of these men be buried outside military plots and without honors.

Prisoners Captured.

Prisoners captured from some of the transport planes forced down en route to Staraya Russa were quoted as saying they were en route with food, munitions and clothing as well as additional manpower.

Twenty-five such transports were smashed in three days. The regular midnight communique said the Soviet advance was continuing with the Germans suffering heavy losses, and stressed the increasing air activity on both sides.

The Soviets had a 19-to-5 advantage in plane losses yesterday, the communique said, and on Sunday the Red Air Force was credited with knocking down 83 German planes, 39 of them three-engined Junkers 52 transports.

The regular newspaper Red Star announced earlier that 703 German and Russian planes were destroyed in the two weeks between February 20 and March 6.

Losses Compared.

German losses were almost five to one for the Russians. The newspaper said the Nazis lost 576 planes, the Russians, 127.

German air activity aimed at trying to wear out the Soviet Air Force by spring began a month ago. But, the Red Star said, Russian raids on German airdromes have proven the most effective method of dealing with the German offensive.

Within the last two weeks the Red Air Force has begun a series of airdrome raids which netted especial destruction of Junkers 88s (dive bombers) and Messerschmitt 110s (fighters).

More Italian Macchi fighters now are appearing on the southern front. The Russians say the use of these inferior aircraft illustrates how the German Air Force is weakening.

Stamp Plan Aids 5,700 Families

More than 5,700 Fulton county families representing 16,397 persons participated in the food stamp plan of the Surplus Marketing Administration during February, Supervisor T. Walter Hughes reported yesterday.

The increase in sales of food through issuance of blue stamps during the month amounted to $40,756.60, he said. The blue stamps were given with purchases of $62,480 worth of orange stamps. Total of food purchases with both types of stamps during the month was $103,236.50.
